Washington. (CPA)—Predictions of a Democratic landslide with complete control of the house of representatives are coming from Democratic leaders now with a good deal more confidence than a month ago, and the frank truth is that the Republicans are worried lest it may turn out that way.

Privately the Republicans are indicating their anxiety in order to spur on their workers and to persuade the public that the Democrats are not the party to try to settle prohibition, but the economic problems come first and the Democrats, they contend, will not subtract from but will add to the uncertainty.

Among the Democratic leaders there is a discussion about the possibility of a flat declaration now that the party will offer a referendum to repeal the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, in the Democratic leadership think it unwise to promise anything just now but merely to confine the campaign to a denunciation of Republican control of government in respect to the business depression.

REASONS FOR SWITCH
The Democrats already are observing that their gains are due to two things—the discontent due to business conditions, and the reaction against a bootlegger era. Undoubtedly, averaging up the various state situations, the Republicans are getting the worst of the prohibition issue because of the fact that the rural districts which are dry are Republican while the Democrats are getting their heaviest gains coming in the urban districts, where Republicans are deserting their party to join the wet Democratic side.

The White House would be disappointed at the loss of a Republican majority in the house, for toward the end of the last session Mr. Hoover and the leaders seemed to work well together. But if the Democrats win, there is a possibility that

'Bugs' Moran Is Arrested In Roadhouse

Former Chicago Gangland
Leader Offers No Resistance to Officers

BULLETIN
Waukegan, Ill. — (P) — George (Bugs) Moran, former gang leader, was turned over to a Chicago detective squad today for hearing on a vagrancy warrant and for questioning concerning a number of slayings including that of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Waukegan, Ill. — (P) — George (Bugs) Moran, former north side gangland ruler and rival of Al Capone, was arrested early today at Cassidy's roadhouse west of here. Moran, alone when a constable and five private detectives surprised him, offered no resistance.

Col. Smith said that the Lake-count authorities had sought Moran and Leo Mongoven, his bodyguard, for months. Mongoven, according to some stories, was supposed to have been slain and his body secretly disposed of by gang enemies, but the Lake-count prosecutor said that his informant indicated that Mongoven was still living and had been with Moran only recently at Bemidji, Minn.

Both Moran and Mongoven were among the 28 men listed some time ago by the Chicago crime commission as "public enemies."

The Cassidy resort on Bluff lake, where Moran was captured has frequently seen his visits, according to Col. Smith. Previous attempts to capture Moran at the resort failed, but force of private detectives led by Constable George "Strait" Sullivan turned him up.

MOUNT HOREB BANK LOOT SET AT $23,760

Western Wisconsin and Eastern Iowa Officers
Seeking Four Bandits

Mount Horeb, (P)—While authorities in western Wisconsin and eastern Iowa sought four men, who held up and robbed the Mount Horeb State bank yesterday, officials checked the loot today and announced $23,760.44 had been taken. They said $6,557.44 was in cash and the remainder was in securities.

The robbers' car was last seen speeding through Mineral Point, Wis., and was believed by officers to have headed into Iowa.

Three of the men, carrying pistols and sawed-off shotguns, entered the bank shortly before closing time yesterday and herded eight patrons and three employees into the bank vault. The fourth man remained outside at the wheel of their large brown car.

RETURN OF BEER ONLY
VISION, W. C. T. U. TOLD

Milwaukee — (P)—The return of beer is a far distant vision. Mrs. Margaret Munn, Evanston, Ill., national treasurer of the W. C. T. U., told delegates to the Milwaukee-W. C. T. U. convention.

"Stories of beer making in the near future," she said, "are nothing but propaganda, designed merely to weaken the faith of the people in prohibition. It's going to be a long, hard struggle, but it's our duty to continue the fight."

Several Milwaukee brewers recently have enlarged and modernized their plants after expressing the belief beer would be legalized soon.

ASKS NYE TO RESUME QUIZ IN NEBRASKA

Senator Norris Wants Inquiry in Stebbins' Gift to Broken Bow Grocer

Lincoln, Neb. — (P) — Senator George W. Norris today requested Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senatorial campaign funds investigating committee, to return to Nebraska to inquire into the statement made last Saturday by W. M. Stebbins, state treasurer, that he donated a $500 bond to the campaign fund of George W. Norris the Broken Bow grocer, and that he gave $350 in cash to a campaign to defeat the Nebraska senator.

Stebbins was the senator's principal opponent in his campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination in the August primary. Norris won the nomination by a wide margin. Grocer Norris' filing as a candidate for the nomination was ruled illegal by a state supreme court justice.

Senator Norris' request that the inquiry be resumed in Nebraska was contained in a letter mailed to Senator Nye at Washington. A copy of the request, however, was left in Lincoln, should the committee chairman reach this city before he receives that one that was mailed to Washington, Senator Norris explained.

Senator Norris' request as outlined to Senator Nye, was based on that provision of the senatorial resolution permitting "every candidate" the right to make a written demand on the committee for investigation and to submit to the committee any evidence such candidate may have of irregularities in a senatorial contest.

The request from Senator Norris specifically describes the Stebbins statement as warranting further inquiry. "In view of the sworn affidavit (campaign expense account) of Mr. Stebbins purporting to give a

FAVOR RETIREMENT PLAN FOR BADGER EMPLOYEES

Madison — (P)—A plan for a retirement system for state employees, presented by a legislative interim committee here today, met with almost unanimous favor by more than 100 state employees.

Edwin E. Witte, chief of the legislative reference library, read and explained the plan. Membership in the retirement system is to be compulsory for all persons in the employ of the state except those in six classifications, under the present plan.

Elective and appointed state officers, except those on the same basis as an employee, are excluded as are teachers covered by the teachers' insurance and retirement fund. University professors under the Carnegie pension plan, part time employees, provisional, emergency and temporary employees and employees under 30 years of age are also excluded.

Claim Rebel Activities In Brazil Showing Decrease

Washington — (P)—The Brazilian embassy in a statement today said insurgent activities in Brazil have "sensitively decreased" to the north and south of the dividing states, Parana and Sao Paulo, since the attack on Itanara where it said federal troops were successful.

The embassy statement, based on dispatches received today, said the bank holiday in Rio de Janeiro had been extended until November 20, but that national as well as foreign banks would be allowed to transact business with the exception of purchasing drafts of exportation, which are exclusively centered in the Banco do Brasil.

Reporting on the recent military events in Brazil, the embassy communique said the rebels did not counter-attack in the Itanara zone and dispersion of many of the rebel forces had become noticeable.

New Yorker Is Asked To Head Unemployment Aid Body For Coming Winter

Washington — (P)—Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York city, who was in charge of unemployment work on President Harding's commission in 1921 today was asked by President Hoover to assume charge of the organization which is being created to relieve suffering during the winter.

The administration was said definitely today to be prepared to ask congress to remove restrictions upon federal public work already provided for over a period of years and to permit this work to go forward at once.

While President Hoover believes the country will be able to take care of the situation during the winter, he expects Mr. Woods to develop an extensive organization to create employment, in cooperation with the cabinet committee which the president today called into session.

The government's estimates of unemployment have been fixed at approximately 3,500,000, but Mr. Hoover does not believe this figure represents the actual burden upon the country.

The United States, it was contended, has a normal unemployed total of approximately 1,000,000, consisting mostly of those who are not seeking work or else are shifting from one job to another and are not without some income. The census also shows an average of one and three-quarters breadwinners per family so that the total families without any source of income is placed by the government below the actual unemployed total.

The government has extended virtually all of its appropriations for public works, amounting to approximately $55,000,000 and is planning to ask congress to permit greatly increased expenditures so as to give increased employment.

Mr. Woods, who also organized after the war a committee for placing veterans in jobs, is expected to come to the capital immediately to undertake development of the relief program. He is to work with the committee of six cabinet members and Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board.

A general plan for encouraging the "starving" employment throughout the country to provide for a greater number of persons was indicated by Secretary Huley to have been discussed at the first meeting of the cabinet committee.

The war department, he said, already has initiated this system in flood control work below St. Louis. Increasing the number of men provided with some income while cutting slightly the income of each.

"By employing 200 men for three days a week instead of 1,000 for six days a week a meal ticket would be provided at least for all of them," he said.

He added the department expected to spend all available money looking to employment of additional persons.

BODIES FOUND IN DWELLING AT WASHBURN

Authorities Believe Northern Wisconsin Man Insane
During Killings

Washburn, Wis. — (P)—A family of six was wiped out today when George Froese, 60, assistant postmaster here many years, killed his wife and four children with a hammer and then slashed his throat at his home here.

The dead, in addition to Froese, are: Mrs. Froese, 45; Nell, 10; George and William, twins, 9 and Adelaide, 3.

When Robert Thoreson, a youngster, came to school this morning he told his teacher, Mrs. E. W. Olson, he thought "the Froese kids would not be at school."

The youngster, questioned by the teacher, said he went to the Froese home to return a book to one of the boys, and as he entered the back door, which was open, he saw Mr. Froese on the floor and "blood all around him."

Officers said the father apparently went insane.

The child said he became frightened when he saw the man's body and did not stop to see whether the Froese boys were home. He went directly to school and did not tell anyone until he saw the teacher.

Chief of Police James Long, investigating the boy's story, found Froese lying in the living room; his throat slashed by a razor. The other members of the family were found in their beds. The children's skulls had been crushed with a hammer while Mrs. Froese apparently was killed by a terrific blow on the back of the neck.

Chief Long said indications were that Froese, after killing his family, slashed his throat in the bathroom and then ran down stairs where he died.

"Froese unquestionably went insane," Chief Long said, "so far as I have been able to learn, he did not have domestic troubles and he was a respected and well liked citizen."

Coroner Edwin Brady said he doubted whether an inquest would be held.

RECONSTRUCT SCENE
As authorities reconstructed the case, Froese arose about 2 o'clock a. m. from the room downstairs where he slept with - son, James, went upstairs and killed his wife who was sleeping in a front room, and then disposed of a daughter, Adelaide. The girl apparently put up a fight, the coroner said, as she had been beaten more than any of the others.

He then, it is believed, went to an adjoining room and killed his sons, Nell and George, who were sleeping there, returned to the downstairs room and killed James, then rushed upstairs again to the bathroom where he slashed his own throat.

He managed to get downstairs and to the living room before he collapsed, the coroner believes.

Froese was not a drinking man, friends said. He was much interested in church and charitable work.

Cold Spell Rules Large Area In U. S.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Continued cold from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard and well down into the south was reported in Associated Press dispatches today.

In most sections the forecast was for fair, though cold, weather and there seemed little chance of any immediate recurrence of the blizzard that paralyzed the region from Buffalo, N. Y., to Easton, Pa., and covered Canadian wheat fields.

New England got more than its share of the low temperatures. It was freezing early today at New Haven, Conn., and around Winsted, temperatures ranged from 20 degrees to 14. Ponds were frozen over for the first time this year. At Brimfield, near Springfield, Mass., it was 15.

In upstate New York plows at last opened most of the connecting roads that had been blocked with from three to four feet of snow, causing a threat of a milk and food shortage to the smaller communities.

In New York city there was no such low temperature as in many other eastern points, but it was cold enough so that the municipal lodging house could not harbor all those who sought shelter and 300 had to be placed aboard a city steamboat.

There was killing frost in Virginia mountains.

The temperature in Lynchburg was 30 degrees. There was frost also in Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

In the western section there was some signs of moderation. Temperatures were rising in Montana and Wyoming although both were below freezing last night and there was snow in Wyoming. More snow was expected in Colorado, and the mercury was close to freezing. Utah had normal temperatures today after several days of unseasonable cold. There was snow in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

QUESTION PAIR IN SLAYING AT SHACK

Couple Held at Viroqua Tell Police Their Host Was Shot by Robber

Viroqua, Wis. — (P)—Vernon Co. officers today continued their questioning of Mrs. Rae Chamberlin and her husband, regarding the slaying of Clarence Sutherland, former Readstown restaurant operator and their host in a "black bottom country" shack between here and Readstown.

Sutherland, was slain Sunday, they said, by a robber.

Their story was that they were sitting in the front room of the shack Sunday evening. Answering a rap at the door, they said, they faced a man who wore a handkerchief mask and commanded them to hold up their hands.

Sutherland came to the doorway between the two rooms and was shot through the head by the intruder as he reached up to a nearby shelf for a gun.

Mrs. Chamberlin and Larson, who said they were from LaCrosse, were held as material witnesses, pending further investigation.

It was announced that out of the 400 workers in the mine at the time of the explosion not more than 100 remained, either dead or awaiting rescue, the other 300 having made their way to safety.

Forced ventilation had been restored, it was said and the chance of escape for all who still remained alive in the mine was considered good.

Gas Explosion Sets Off Dynamite Stores and Gasoline Tanks Near Mine

BEGIN RESCUE WORK
Forced Ventilation Started to Keep Imprisoned Men Alive Underground

Aldorf, Germany — (P)—At least 100 coal miners and surface workers perished today in a terrific explosion of a store of dynamite in the No. 2 shaft of the Anna Coal mine. The explosion ignited a gasoline tank underneath the office building in the Eschweiler Mining company.

The fate of 200 men on a level lower than where the explosion occurred was still uncertain late this afternoon, but it was hoped to save those trapped as the effect of the blast was more severe upward than in a downward direction.

Berlin — (P)—Possibility that 100 or even more miners had lost their lives in a dynamite explosion in the Anna Coal mine at Aldorf was admitted by the management of the mine this evening after 50 dead had been brought out of the wrecked shaft.

A director of the mining company told the Associated Press over the long distance telephone that it was impossible to make a guess as to the number of dead or alive still in the shaft. He said:

"We do not know whether it is 70 or 100 or even more. Difficultly confronting us in estimating the losses is that the miners could escape by three shafts.

"We do not know who escaped and who remains alive. It is impossible to communicate with those still alive because telephone communication has been cut. But we are sure sufficient air is being pumped down to them and therefore believe the chances are good that most of them are alive."

It now appears that there were three explosions. The first was a gas explosion underground which caused dynamite stores to blow up in one of the shafts. This in turn caused the explosion of petrol tanks in a building on the surface.

FAR BELOW SURFACE
Aldorf, Germany — (P)—Fifty miners were killed and about 100 trapped under ground by a dynamite explosion this forenoon in the Wilhelm shaft of the Anna Mine.

The victims were buried in the wreckage spread by the blast through two levels 1,200 and 1,500 feet below the surface. Among the victims were two office workers killed when buildings above ground collapsed.

The management stated that rescue progress would be slow because the main entrance to the mine had been made impassable by the explosion and that the victims must be carried to shafts of the Maria mine, several miles away by an underground route.

It was announced that out of the 400 workers in the mine at the time of the explosion not more than 100 remained, either dead or awaiting rescue, the other 300 having made their way to safety.

Forced ventilation had been restored, it was said and the chance of escape for all who still remained alive in the mine was considered good.

Rescue crews and fire brigades assembled quickly and worked feverishly to bring some of the entombed men to the surface. Relatives gathered tearfully about the mouth of the shaft.

Windows for miles around were shattered by force of the explosion.

FISH DIET TIRESOME
TO MAROONED FARMERS
Marquette, Mich. — (P)—Santer and Anti Mattson, Chatham farmers, were at their homes today after being marooned on Au Train island by a storm. They had lived three days on a fish diet.

The men left for the island at the head of the Au Train river Friday night on a fishing trip. A severe storm prevented their return. Marquette coast guards yesterday went to their aid and brought them to the mainland. The men said they suffered little discomfort other than distaste for a monotonous diet.

Madison — The Capital Times today said that the appointment of Jack K. Kyle, Whitewater, as executive secretary to Philip LaFollette in event of the latter's election as governor, was almost a certainty.

You Can Save Money By Buying Paints This Fall

Ever since, at the age of six, the scribe dumped a can of dark paint all over himself and was mistaken by his mother for the colored junk man's little boy, he has felt a close kinship to the men who paint and paper. Even today he cannot tear himself away from the sight of a painter spreading the protecting fluid—be it only on the side of a barn.

Which is one reason why he interviewed the paint men (The other reason was an order from headquarters.)

The householder who wishes to spread paint this fall, either personally or by proxy, is assured of a nice little saving from the price he would have had to pay a year ago.

True prices are not drastically reduced, but the value has always been put in paint and today is extra, more so.

A drop in the price of linseed oil has helped to lower the price of paint, this plus economical marketing, is forcing the home owner to the paint store.

In "mental things" such as turpentine and linseed oil have come down in price. This is good news for the man or woman who likes to dabble with paint—or who takes his or her painting seriously.

The scribe takes his painting seriously, though his friends usually summon a policeman when they see him on the verge of coating something. Painting, they believe, should be left to those who understand its limitations as well as its possibilities.

There need be, however, no limitation on the amount of protecting paint and beautifying wall paper which is to be used this fall. Right now the prospects of winter are facing us. The exterior of the home needs to be protected against winter's ravages. Since we are to spend more time indoors than in the past several months, it's high time that we paid attention to beautifying the interior with the right kind of paints, papers, varnishes and stains.

The painters themselves are prepared to give quick, economical service in such measure that it is almost folly to delay their important work in our homes.

In the meantime, the scribe is getting all worked up over the idea of painting. So, if you find somebody painting your garage some fair morning, investigate before you shoot.

Young Man Fails In Two Attempts To Take Own Life

SHOOTSELF NEAR HEART WITH RIFLE

Richard Severson, 35, in Green Bay Hospital in Critical Condition

Two attempts to take his own life in the last few days have been unsuccessful for Richard Severson, 35, who lives with his brother, Elmer, on a small farm about two miles south of Leeman near the intersection of County Trunks B and G.

Tuesday Severson lay in St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay, in a critical condition with a bullet hole two inches below his heart, inflicted with a .44 calibre rifle in his own hands about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in the farm house.

Sunday evening he was found on the floor in the farm house with an empty bottle of iodine at his side and his lips stained with the contents. There was not enough iodine to cause death, however, according to District Attorney Stanley A. Staid.

Then at 5 o'clock last evening his brother discovered him lying on the bed, conscious, but in a serious condition. The bullet entered his body about two inches below the heart, tore through the right lung and emerged from his back.

CONDUCT PROBE
An investigation conducted by District Attorney Staid and Coroner E. E. Ellsworth revealed that Severson had reclined on a couch in the kitchen, elevated the gun above him with the barrel over his body, and pulled the trigger.

The wounded man dragged himself from the kitchen, through a living room and then fell on the bed in the bedroom. A trail of blood led from the kitchen to the bedroom, according to Mr. Staid.

A short time before finding his brother Elmer Severson found a note on the kitchen table. The note read: "Dear Brother: Just a line to let you know that when you come back I won't be here. My clothes are all packed. Please give them to John. Good Bye. Richard." John is the youngest of the three brothers, and is employed on a nearby farm.

Last spring Severson completed a six months sentence in the county jail for breaking parole. In October, 1929, he was paroled to the state board of control after pleading guilty to a charge of petty larceny. He was in jail from Dec. 1, 1929, to June 1, 1930.

He recently returned to his farm after spending several weeks in the same hospital at Green Bay, where he received treatment for nerve disorders.

HURRICANE STRIKES VERA CRUZ VICINITY

Mexico City (AP)—Dispatches from Vera Cruz today said a hurricane with winds ranging up to 100 miles an hour struck that city yesterday, tying up traffic in the port. No great damage was reported from the wind, which was accompanied by heavy rainfall. The disturbance apparently passed out over the gulf. It was believed to have been the same cyclonic disturbance which Friday swept the southern Pacific coast. Rains and fog for the last three days have tied up the Mexico City-Brownsville airplane service.

European Tour Plans Nearing Completion

Plans for the rural teacher's tour of Europe in 1931 are slowly nearing completion. A definite itinerary was outlined Monday afternoon when representatives of four of the world's largest steamship lines gathered in Appleton to secure the needed information to make their final bids. The meeting was held at the office of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, who is planning the tour.

There also were representatives at the meeting from many of the leading railroads and these men were asked to submit separate bids on the railroad portion of the trip.

Some of the steamship lines represented Monday offered to take the group to Europe from Montreal; one offered to leave from Montreal and return to New York; and another offered to leave and return from New York. Thus the railroad men were asked to submit bids on round trips from Montreal and New York and also on a one way trip from each port. It will not be definitely known from which port the teacher's will sail until steamship bids are in. These have been promised by the companies by the end of this week.

The conference Monday lasted until early evening. Every detail of the trip, from the time the group leaves from the United States until it returns, was discussed thoroughly.

"BUGS" MORAN HELD AFTER POLICE RAID

prised Moran at 2 o'clock a. m., today and ended the hunt which has engaged not only the authorities of Lake-co and Chicago but also, it is reported, big gangsters hostile to Moran.

Col. Smith said that Moran would be questioned about the slaying of Joe Bertche, Sam Pellar, and Frank Quirk at Cross Lake, also in Lake-co, last May 31. The three were shot to death supposedly by gangland enemies.

Moran was taken for the night to the county jail at Waubesa. Moran's arrest was made as a result of advance information received by Col. Smith a week ago that the Chicago gangster would be at the Cassidy resort some time this week. He had a revolver when trapped, officers said.

Moran has been missing from Chicago since some time prior to the slaying last June 9, of Alfred Lingie, a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. Rumors at the time of Lingie's death were that Moran's gang had participated in a conspiracy which led to Lingie's killing. Other rumors were that the Moran and Cassidy gangs were about to resume their old warfare. Subsequently Jack Zuta, a follower of Moran, was slain in Chicago and Moran was reported to have hidden himself in some remote section of Minnesota.

AT CHICAGO CITY HALL
As he went to a hearing on vagrancy charges, filed by the Lake-co state's attorney, Moran told newspapermen he had recently been in Chicago where he has been sought for weeks.

"Why, I was in the city hall at Chicago only last week," he said. "I talked with several acquaintances there. If the Chicago police were looking for me they weren't straining their eyes, I guess."

"I can't see how they can get anywhere on a vagrancy charge against me. I am vice-president of the Central Cleaners and Dyers in Chicago and active in the business. The vagrancy doesn't scare me. I am not in any rackets."

Moran said he had been out of the liquor business and other rackets for four years and added, "I have been going straight and I intend to go straight."

Lake-co authorities said this morning they would not attempt to keep the gang leader here but would turn him over to officers from Cook-co.

JUDGE LYLE PLEADED

Chicago (AP)—Informed of the arrest for vagrancy of George "Bugs" Moran and his detention in bonds of $50,000 early today at Waubesa, Judge John H. Lyle, who has issued a vagrancy warrant for Moran's arrest, said "I am enclosing herewith."

Adverting to the state supreme court's action in reducing a $50,000 bond he had set in a vagrancy case to $5,000, Judge Lyle said he sent the Moran case.

"Probably the Waubesa authorities will follow the admonition of Bassanio in 'The Merchant of Venice' where he says: 'to do a great right, do a little wrong' and hold Moran at the $5,000 instead of reducing his bonds to $5,000."

Judge Lyle said he could not speculate on the probability that the authorities here might arrest Moran.

VOTERS WARNED TO REGISTER AT ONCE

Only One Week Remains to Get Names on Lists, Clerk Points Out

Only one more week remains for registration at city hall, and Carl Becker, city clerk, admonishes all non-registered voters to avail of the opportunity of placing their names on the poll lists before election day. If done now the task involves nothing more than a visit to the city clerk's office; if done on election day it means voting by affidavit, which entails bringing two property owners to the polls and being sworn in.

The city clerk's office will not be open nights during this last week, but registration can take place during the day from 9 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Next Tuesday will be the final day of registration in the clerk's office, as the stenographers must have at least a week for preparation of the poll lists.

The board of directors of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building. Plans for the next meeting will be discussed.

THREE WITNESSES TAKE STAND IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Former Co-ed Sues Menasha Man and Appleton Firm for $10,000

Three witnesses had been heard up to noon Tuesday in the damage suit for $10,000 brought by Miss Margaret Jean Burke, South Bend, Ind., against Harold Pierce, Menasha, C. P. Pierce, Menasha, and the C. F. Smith Livery and Transfer company, Appleton. The case, which is being tried before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court, opened Monday morning.

Miss Burke and Harold Pierce were former students at Lawrence college. The suit is the result of an automobile accident on Feb. 9, 1929, in which Burke was injured while riding with Pierce as they were returning from a college party. Four other students in the car were uninjured when Pierce's car crashed into the rear end of a Smith taxicab which had stopped on S. Memorial to discharge a passenger. Pierce suffered a broken arm and the girl lost several teeth and suffered several severe lacerations on her face.

She charges that her face has been scarred permanently and that as a result of the crash she is losing the rest of her teeth. She claims Pierce and the taxicab company were negligent and seeks damages. Pierce disclaims any liability and has filed a damage suit for $5,000 against the Smith company. Smith denies any liability in either suit.

The case is not expected to go to the jury for several days. Witnesses already heard include Miss Burke, Pierce, and Dr. S. J. Kloehn, a dentist.

Members of the jury are: J. W. Doyle, 513 N. Garfield-st.; Clyde E. Kiser, 1210 N. Jefferson-st.; William Zuchow, 524 N. Eastman-st.; Walter Krueger, 218 W. Wymann-st.; Guy Marston, 121 E. Prospect-ave.; Truman C. Coon, 818 E. South River-st.; Mike Dertus, 6 Sherman-pl.

Tells Members of Junior Group About the Art of Right Living

The Art of Fine Living was the keynote of an address delivered by Harry E. Dodge, East River, Mass., inspirational, educational and religious speaker, at the dinner meeting of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Appleton Monday evening.

Mr. Dodge stressed four points, namely, care of the body, development of the mind, development of high morals, and religion.

Several interpretive readings were given by Miss Margaret Heckel, of Lawrence college. A report on the state junior of chamber booster tour on Oct. 12, 13 and 14 also was submitted.

true and accurate account of his expenditures in this campaign. This confession of Mr. Stebbins is a flat contradiction of this evidence already taken by yourself and senator Dale."

SENDS STEBBINS' STATEMENT
"I am enclosing herewith," Senator Norris continued, "a copy of a recent statement of the Honorable W. M. Stebbins in which he makes certain confessions in regard to contributions made and other acts relating to the candidacy of George W. Norris of Broken Bow, in the primary contest in this state."

"I desire also to call your attention to numerous published statements and speeches of Mr. Stebbins given out and made during the primary campaign, that likewise flatly contradict the statements made in his recent confession."

"It is unnecessary for me to call your attention to the testimony already taken regarding the entries into the primary contest of George W. Norris of Broken Bow, who we have identified the same man as myself. The committee has evidently honestly and earnestly tried to locate the real cause of the entrance of this man into the contest and has already taken a great deal of evidence on the subject."

"It seems to me that Mr. Stebbins' recent statement warrants me in asking that the committee or some sub-committee thereof, return to Nebraska and make a further investigation."

"I sincerely hope that this investigation may take place before election, as long before as possible, but it is impossible. I respectfully request that such further investigation be made after election. It is a matter of such vast importance, particularly to the senate, that it seems to me that the matter cannot be ignored and must be probed to the bottom."

LECTURER POINTS OUT HEALTH RULES TO PROLONG LIFE

Eat Good Food, Sleep More, and Exercise Daily, He Advises

Methods of prolonging life through proper diet and correct living were outlined Monday by Harry E. Dodge, Fall River, Mass., inspirational lecturer at the weekly luncheon of the Lions club at Conway hotel.

Mr. Dodge pointed out that there are three chief rules governing physical fitness, including food, sleep and proper exercise.

"In this age of dollar chasing Americanism, too many of us are not giving proper attention to our health," Mr. Dodge said.

"There are too few people who value their health more than their wealth, and for that reason are headed for an early grave."

"It's what we are, not what we have, that counts the most in this life. Happiness is what counts the most in this world, and we can't have it unless we are feeling well."

"Money can't buy happiness, but happiness can be found in good health. There are hundreds of people who haven't a dime, but are happy. And there are hundreds of people who have accumulated large fortunes who aren't happy."

"The three rules governing good health are: good food, but not too much; sleep more, and relax; exercise daily, upon rising in the morning."

"Controlling one's weight is an important item in maintaining good health. The human heart can carry a limited amount of human bulk, and when it is overloaded it is extremely handicapped. Too many people are not much concerned about their weights, and for that reason we hear so much about people dropping dead while engaged in their favorite sports such as tennis, golf, swimming, or baseball."

Scottish Fisher Girls Welcome Prince Of Wales

Yarmouth, Eng. (AP)—The Prince of Wales has been cheered by many types in many lands but he got a new thrill today when he received an enthusiastic reception, mixed with a little good-natured chaffing, from the famed Scottish fisher girls who come to Yarmouth each year during the herring season.

Despite his many public appearances, the prince remains delightfully bashful. He took his courage in hand on this occasion, however, and invaded the stronghold of the fisher girls who, picturesquely garbed in oilskins and slush boots, their heads covered with gay handkerchiefs were cleaning and packing the silvery fish.

These girls drive the average man to cover quickly with their wit but they gave the prince a rousing cheer and treated him so gently that he seemed to get as much fun out of the encounter as they did.

As the prince watched the girls he moistened his lips which had become dry with the salt air and remarked to one of the fisher girls "you must get very thirsty on this job."

"Och, aye, we great tea drinkers," she replied.

The prince also saw a drifter come in with 50,000 herring aboard. "What a catch," and they say fishing is a dull game."

He talked with Jack Carter, skipper of the drifter. "I should love to come out for a few days fishing with you," he said. "When you get a catch like this, it must be quite exciting, besides I could tell a tall fishing yarn and for the first time it would be a true one."

WANT DUCK HUNTERS TO SEND BACK BANDS FOUND ON BIRDS' LEGS

Appleton hunters who bag wild ducks with metal or other bands attached to their legs for the purpose of tracing migration of the birds over the continent, have been urged by fish and game societies to mail the tags to the addresses given on them.

While some hunters may feel guilty and believe they have shot domesticated ducks or decoys, the information gained from receipt of such bands is very valuable in the study of the habits of wild fowl, and hunters who mail them to the proper persons will be rendering a service and will be aiding in this extensive study, it was pointed out.

GETTING PRETTY COMMON

Last Saturday, the Farmers Exchange bank of Cashton, Wisconsin, was entered by two bandits and robbed. Not satisfied with taking over $5,000 in loot one of the bandits crashed the butt of his weapon against the assistant cashier's forehead and may have added murder to robbery.

This is getting to be a pretty common occurrence in Wisconsin. And why shouldn't it? The Progressives, who apparently are going to rule the state for the next two years have broadcasted their theory that the state should not be organized through a state police or detective force to combat this menace. Bandits are a notoriously cowardly lot, insisting upon all the advantages, willing only to attack unarmed men when they themselves are armed, and not altogether dumb by any means in the matter of the other chances they take. If the Progressives will leave parlor socialistic theories alone and come down to the practical world in which we live, they will realize that the flood of bank robberies in Wisconsin has certainly been increased by their own political propaganda. Criminal conduct is always fostered by conditions that make it profitable and one of the most important conditions that criminals seek is unarmed or unprotected communities. When criminals find a city or state in which through corrupt politics they may buy their way free they operate there. When they find a state where the people are unprotected in a modern sense they operate there. If it is even cheaper than operating in a politically corrupt state because they may save all the swag for themselves.

The Progressives will come to realize this because of course their purpose is not to do harm to the state but must they be crashed over the head with the butt end of a revolver to see a thing so plain? An ounce of prevention is here worth a pound of cure just as well as in any other situation. A state detective force as advocated by Governor Kohler would tend to minimize these depredations, would probably reduce by fifty per cent even the attempted forays of these bandits. We are entitled in Wisconsin to have action along these lines before enough banks are robbed and their officers and employees slugged or murdered to force the Progressives, through an outraged public sentiment, to do something. If the Progressives have a better plan than that originated by the circuit judges of the state and afterwards advocated by Governor Kohler, well and good. If they can improve upon that suggestion the people will be delighted to have them do so. But in the face of a situation that is becoming well-nigh intolerable, to glumly or stubbornly refuse to support a constructive program merely because it was advocated by a political opponent, is not even the part of ordinary intelligence.

ON, WISCONSIN!

Pride went before a fall again last Saturday when Pennsylvania's pigskin warriors, heralded as the pride of the East, came to Madison to do battle with the Wisconsin team, which has only been conceded third or fourth place in the Big Ten by the expert forecasters. The Penn coach, following Mr. Rockne's sometimes plan at Notre Dame, put in his second string to start the game, thinking he might save his stars for the harder contests in the East. But it is to be observed that when Mr. Rockne puts in his second string he is pretty certain that they can hold the fort.

Wisconsin crashed over: Penn's second string to a touchdown. Blankets were thrown helter-skelter and the Quaker first team raced onto the field only to find that it could make no headway and was itself routed to the tune of twenty-seven to nothing.

Wisconsin teams have never lacked brawn nor courage but have lost many times because of a lack of field generalship. To win in football players must have and use headwork as well as footwork. In this department, Saturday, Wisconsin excelled in particular. It did not pull a bone-head play. It outsmarted Penn at every turn. It outclassed the eastern team so completely as to make the spectators gasp. The young men from Pennsylvania must have gone home with the idea that they had been through a hurricane and with the knowledge that although not outdone in weight nor strength nor courage nor spirit they had been completely outclassed in fast thinking.

It is eighteen years now since Wisconsin has won first place in the western conference although it has had teams that seemingly deserved that mark of class. 1930 may be its year. We hope so.

NOTHING BUT DIAMOND

The principal piece of news in English newspapers for the past week has been Jack "Legs" Diamond, American gunman, rum-runner and racketeer, who failed of admission into European countries on a trip, said by his friends to have been made to avoid running into leaden messengers of the enemy, only to return to New York to be shot four times by alleged friends who called on him to discuss "business."

One is led to believe that the English get quite some satisfaction out of printing news items concerning American tribulations, but that is an element of human nature, not confined to the English but generally found the world over. All countries suffering from economic depression seem to welcome anything approaching a similar situation in the United States and simply because misery loves company. One thing in England which all parties seem to agree about, Liberal, Conservative and Labor, is that America is suffering from a wild wave of criminal excesses and that the United States has completely failed to maintain internal law and order, some think because Americans generally are indifferent to crime except such crime as may directly concern themselves, that the trouble is that we don't care a rap about what happens. The Daily Herald advances the careful opinion that our prohibition law has bred all our lawlessness and takes it for granted that people can hardly look out their windows without seeing a shooting affray on some street corner. Certain it is that since we have had prohibition it seems to be increasingly unpopular abroad, for when the idea of prohibition is mentioned to a European he invariably points to this country as the glaring example of the terrible havoc prohibition works. The Manchester Guardian is more charitable. It looks upon the American crime wave as "part of a worldwide wave of lawlessness following in the train of the war" and concludes that the difficulty "is that the principles on which our elaborate social organization was built up have collapsed."

Like most generalizations, and the Guardian's is a popular one, it fails to point out in what respect these principles have collapsed, to say nothing about even mentioning the principles by name. If more critics would be definite in their criticism our lawmaking bodies might pick up the thread and weave it into a new social fabric of such strength as to withstand social disorders. The trouble is that each critic has a particular idea of his own, most often the result of his own pet theories, likes or dislikes. The wet will tell you that prohibition is the cause of it all and the dry will say that were it not for prohibition the situation would be worse; the socialist will say that there is not a sufficient distribution of wealth in America, only to be told by the opposition that the distribution of wealth in America is the fairest to be found in the world. The real truth of it probably is that we get just as good a government as we deserve, that most crime is fostered by a corrupt political situation or an unenlightened one, and since the real power of government is in the hands of the people, they have only themselves to blame for such miscarriages as naturally result from their own indifference.

No one should envy England any relish it may get out of American foibles. With millions idle, the same millions who have been in that condition for twelve years, and not a gleam of relief in sight, the Englishman is entitled to try at least to get a smile or even a smirk out of the troubles that pester others, if by so doing he may drown his own woes.

BATTLE OF TRAFALGAR

On Oct. 21, 1805, Napoleon gave up whatever plans he had of invading England when the allied French and Spanish fleets were badly defeated by Lord Nelson, British admiral, off Cape Trafalgar. The victory not only gave England a memorable naval victory but prestige of the seas, which it has since maintained.

The day before the battle the allied fleet of 33 ships ventured to put to sea, but they were met by Nelson with 27 ships. The British admiral had previously watched their maneuvers and sensed their movements immediately.

Before the fight started, Nelson gave his famous signal, "England expects that every man will do his duty." After a desperate fight, 18 of the enemy ships were captured and the rest dispersed. Nelson was mortally wounded and his last words were, "Thank God, I have done my duty."

The importance of Nelson's victory may be had from this appreciation: "At Trafalgar they (the allied fleets) had plenty of room to maneuver. . . . yet they could not escape, such was the paralyzing effect of Nelson's tactics. Nelson had solved a problem that had puzzled British admirals for a century—namely, how to prevent the French making off while most of their fleet was still more or less intact. For this reason Trafalgar is regarded as the greatest of naval battles, and Nelson as the greatest of admirals."

In the days of my professional youth, and even yet, we sometimes gave patients bismuth subnitrate as a sedative to the gastro-intestinal organs.

Now they are using this almost homely old remedy as a remedy for high blood pressure. They give it particularly to youngsters people who have hypertension, and in much smaller doses than we used to dole out for summer complaint and sour stomach and the like. It seems that a mere ten grains (10) of bismuth subnitrate three times a day is sufficient for the purpose; when the patient downs this dose nitrate ions are given off from the nitrate for some hours, and the nitrate ions have the effect of all nitrites on the arterial tension—that is, relaxation.

So, there you are, folks. I gladly bring the news, because I am sure this remedy is harmless enough in any case. The 10 grains of bismuth subnitrate may be conveniently taken in a capsule.

In such small doses the bismuth seldom produces any constipation.

The remedy merely purports to lower high blood pressure moderately and gradually by relaxing the arterioles gently. "It doesn't cure anything."

There is still too great a tendency to regard high blood pressure as a disease, or a cause of impaired health. Of course it is not so. If the blood pressure is above the usual "normal" limits, why, that is merely a sign of something wrong somewhere, and the wise patient will seek to find out just what is the matter before he begins any treatment at all. A tremendous amount of quackery and nonsense in the "treatment of blood pressure." I hope any of our readers who may derive any benefit from bismuth subnitrate will not neglect the proper treatment of the underlying cause of the high blood pressure.

A young college athlete showed rather a tall tale, on examination never mind just how high it was. The doctor cautioned him to quit training. But the young chap kept right on. After a week of training the pressure was still higher. But the young chap kept right on. He finished the season with a perfectly normal blood pressure.

I am not going to point a moral in that case. I leave it to you people who have high blood pressure. The only thing I do earnestly advise is that you should not neglect proper medical investigation of your condition, which investigation, of course, only begins with the recording of the blood pressure.

One final bit of bad news and I'll call it a day. Tobacco is perhaps the most prolific single cause of excessive blood pressure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
The Old Family Doctor.

Dr. Brady, my old family doctor once told me there was no such thing as indigestion, that people just used that handy name for whatever troubles or ailments they happened to have. I laughed to myself at the time, thinking "Oh, well, you have been bothered, that's all." Now I believe he spoke the truth, since you make it so clear that the dumbest layman can understand. (Mrs. C. G.)

Answer—Most good family doctors have long recognized the truth about that, but few of us have ever dared to tell it to our patients. I never had quite that much courage as actual practice. G. E. Shaw frightened away my noblest impulses when he said in an address to the doctors of London, about the time American medicine was so inspired by my entrance, that the family doctor dare not tell the unvarnished truth, lest his patients chase doctors.

Sauer Kraut Cures Calcium.

Am I right in thinking you included sauer kraut among the foods that contain calcium? My interest in this is that I am doing a bit of research along this line, video "The Glands Regulating Personality," Berman Macmillan, 1928. (D. O. C.)

Answer—Yes, cabbage is one of the very best sources of calcium. Of course it is still as rich in calcium (lime) after it has been fermented to produce sauer kraut. I thank you for mentioning the book—I find I have confused this book with another, entitled "The Mysterious Glands," by one Rubin, and I fear I may have given an unfavorable opinion of Berman's book when I was in fact referring to Rubin's book. I think I have never seen Berman's book.

Soda Water.
Cool tar products, we are told, are often harmful and sometimes seem to predispose to cancer. Does plain carbonated water or seltzer come under this classification? Is it a good thing to drink if one has had kidney stones? (B. P.)

Answer—No, ordinary soda water is not a cool tar product. One who has had kidney stones had better follow his doctor's advice. Ordinary carbonated water is harmless.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynites reached an avenue that gave them all a wondrous view. As far as they could see, stood big trees boldly on each side. The higher branches drooped and swayed and, down below, spread cooling shade. As Scouty said, "Gee, this is great," the other Tynites sighed.

Then Cloway noticed something queer. Said he, "Why are all these chairs here? I've never seen so many in a street like this before. Beneath each tree a number stand. Right in one I am going to land." The Travel Man said, "Go ahead! That's what the chairs are for."

"You see, as people walk about, they're likely to get all tired out. Then they can sit right down and rest. So we can sit down, too." Then every Tyny took a chair and sat, enjoying real fresh air. Said Cloway, "Gee, this loafing is the best thing that we do."

A little flower girl sauntered by and Copy shouted, "Hey, there! I would like a little flower to wear. They always smell so sweet." This promptly made her business thrive 'cause Mister Travel Man bought five. As Cloway put his in its place he said, "There, that's just swell."

In 'bout a half an hour or so the Travel Man said, "Well, let's go. I think you all would like to see the market place. It's great. I think it's only 'bout a mile. We'll make it in a little while." And then the bunch were on their way at quite a speedy gait.

They found the Travel Man was right. The market place was quite a sight. Beneath big white umbrellas, men were selling lots of things. One man had coops of chickens and they started pecking Cloway's hand. Then came a big commotion when they flapped their feathery wings.

(The Tynmites meet some fisher folks in the next story.)

The Guinness family of England, which made its fortune in ale and stout, may try to lift the America's cup, which Lipton failed to do. They can be depended upon, at least, to put up a good schooner.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—It looks as though it's going to be an Indian autumn in New York.

Sir Rabindranath Tagore, poet and author, will lecture "Five hundred of his paintings (he is little known as an artist) will be shown. There will be an exhibition of other modern Indian art."

And the Barrymore of India, Sisir Kumar Bhaduri, will bring his native drama to Broadway as Mel Lafargue brought Chinese drama last year.

Tagore comes at the invitation of American friends, in the interest of his international university at Bolpur, about 100 miles from Calcutta. His health is delicate—he is 69 years old—and the white-bearded philosopher planned a week's rest in the Maine woods before starting on his lecture tour.

INDIA'S BARD
Rabindranath means, "The Lord of Light," but in India everybody has a nickname to signify his qualities. Tagore's is Gunder, meaning "The Spiritual Master."

Tagore already is a familiar figure to Americans who attend lectures. Austere in manner, he never speaks of ordinary things.

Grandson of an Indian prince, Tagore is aristocratic, but lives simply in a bungalow overlooking a plain with palm trees against the sky. This is very satisfying to his poetic temperament as he sits in the evening watching the sunset.

He sings his own poetry, acts in his own dramas, paints and composes songs that are sung by the people throughout the countryside within a radius of 500 miles.

He renounced the title "Sir" in 1919 in protest against the British government's treatment of his countrymen, but now permits himself to be so addressed.

In religion he is a member of the sect Brahmo Samaj, which has no name for the Deity other than "The Eternal One" and is similar to both the Unitarians and the Quakers.

His university, of which his son, who holds a Ph. D. degree from Cornell, is in direct charge, is extremely unconventional.

The students are all outdoors. Each professor has his special tree under which he lectures and as the class rings each student with his piece of carpet and books comes to the appointed place. There is much chanting of songs and meditation on spiritual things.

Sir Rabindranath's ideal is to harmonize the spiritual culture of the east and the scientific culture of the west, which probably will be his principal lecture theme.

STAGE STAR.
The actor, Bhaduri, is high-caste Brahmin, like all Indians proud of his pale complexion. He is 45 years old, and under 6 feet in height. Like Tagore, he refuses to wear European costume and always wears the muslin drape of his race.

He comes here as the tide of Calcutta, though he cut himself off from his priestly caste as a Brahmin by marrying a dancing girl, a pupil of Tagore.

Bhaduri has a large repertoire, mainly of the historical epics of India, from the building of the Taj Mahal to the problems of non-resident landlords in Calcutta.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It was freely predicted when the Kellogg treaty, an unusual gesture for peace, was consummated, that Frank Billings Kellogg was in line for world-wide recognition.

There was talk that probably the coveted Nobel peace prize would be awarded him, but this failed to materialize.

But, at the age of 74, this one-time farmer boy, one-time law office janitor, one-time highly successful lawyer, one-time United States senator, one-time ambassador to Great Britain, and one-time secretary of state, achieves about as great an honor as could come to him—

A justice on the world court of international justice.

NEW CAREER AT 74.
The career of this little white-haired, stoop-shouldered man who literally lifted himself by his bootstraps, from farmer boy in Minnesota to the bench of international justice is a remarkable one.

At the age of 74—at a time when most men think of retiring—he is embarking upon a new career.

And it is characteristic of the man. He seems determined to continue a life of activity until the very last. Extremely nervous and his vision completely impaired in one eye, he still retains a remarkable power of concentration. He shoots a good game of golf—can hold his own with the best. And though his club shakes as a reed in the wind when he addresses his ball, it usually goes where he wants it.

Hard work has been the predominant thing in Kellogg's life, and to that, more than anything else, he attributes his success. Even when he went to Rochester for the first time to practice law he had to carry on with manual labor.

INSTRUCTION WAS PAY.

Perhaps the man in Washington who knows Kellogg better than any other is Bill Beck, secretary to him while Kellogg was secretary of state. Beck has explored the family records to learn what he could about Kellogg's history. He says this is part of what he found:

"It was in him to be a lawyer. When he got to be a man's size there was no question about what he would do. After the fashion of those times, he entered a lawyer's office to study, colleges being few and beyond his reach.

"There he swept out, tended the fire, looked up references, copied papers, read Blackstone and gradually soaked up a knowledge of the rules of practice. The attorney in whose office he studied gave him instruction as compensation for his services."

"He did the office chores for his tuition and worked out his boarding doing stable chores for a farmer."

son, failed apparently to take back-gammon into account."

Francisco Cambo, Spain's richest man, has lost his voice. But there is no evidence to show hush money had anything to do with it.

DRAW NEW PLAN TO EVEN UP STATES' RADIO FACILITIES

Commissioner Robinson Would Help Sections With Less Than Lawful Share

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Washington — Twenty-five states which have less than their lawful share of radio facilities would be benefited with increased power for their local and regional stations and, in some cases, even with new stations, under a "practical plan" being worked out by federal radio commissioner Ira E. Robinson.

In one of the few interviews he has given since his appointment to the commission more than two years ago, Judge Robinson said that his plan will be submitted to the commission within ten days. Just how these under-quota states will be brought up to their proportional shares of facilities is not divulged by the commissioners. His only comment now as to the basic plan is that regional and local stations would be increased in power, and new stations licensed in areas that are substantially without service.

"My plan is consistent with the assignment of stations generally throughout the country," he said. "It does not involve an upheaval of station assignments."

WON'T PRUNE YET

It is not the intention of the commissioner to propose the pruning down of facilities in the 23 states which are over their proper quotas, as prescribed by law. Reduction of these facilities, and the equalization of facilities among the states, he declared, is a problem for the commission to work out at a later date.

The commission recently adopted as official the 1930 preliminary census figures for the United States and computed the distribution of facilities among the states and zones according to these figures. The Davis equalization amendment to the radio act provides that there shall be an equal distribution of broadcasting stations, channels, hours of operation and power among the five radio zones into which the nation is divided, so far as is possible. Then it specifies that there shall be a "fair and equitable" allocation of these same facilities, among the states in each zone according to population.

To simplify the compilation of state quotas, the commission adopted a "unit system," setting an arbitrary figure for the total number of units to which each zone is entitled. These units were broken down into the number to which each state is entitled according to population. A station of 1,000 watts, doubling up on a channel, and operating full-time is computed as one unit, while a station of 5,000 watts or more on a cleared channel, with full-time is five units. The unit values of other classes of stations are pro-rated accordingly.

23 OVER QUOTA

The analysis showed that 25 states are under quota and 23 over their quota in varying degrees. Immediately the commission considered several plans for "equalizing" but threw them aside because they involved a drastic readjustment of stations.

Now Judge Robinson proposes to solve at least one-half the problem, by bringing the under-quota states up to scratch. As he does not believe in cleared channels and high power, it is understood that he is not considering big stations in his project, but only the regionals, with maximum power of 1,000 watts, and the locals which are limited to 250 watts maximum.

The commission's analysis shows that Pennsylvania is the most under-quota state, lacking 8.47 units, or the equivalent of about eight 1,000-watt regional stations, and one 500 watt regional. Indiana lacks 3.46 units, South Carolina 3.12, Mississippi 3, Michigan 2.98, Alabama 2.89, Massachusetts 1.77, West Virginia 1.35, Wisconsin 1.33, Wyoming 1.26, New Hampshire 1.11, North Carolina 1.01, and the remaining 13 states less than one unit each.

COUNTIES LIABLE FOR DAMAGES ON HIGHWAYS

Madison—(AP)—Counties are liable for damages resulting from defects in state trunk highways although the defective part of the highways lies within a village, the attorney general has ruled in an opinion to the state highway commission. The opinion was sought as a result of a claim against LaCrosse county for injuries received in an automobile accident in the village of West Salem on U. S. Highway 16 which is also a state trunk highway.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

During the past month the locks between DePere and Portage were opened 3,990 times. During the month 513 passengers and 47,866 tons of freight were transported up and down the river. The most freight, was carried between De Pere and Menasha. Most of the freight was coal and equipment for paper mills in this part of the valley.

Never Ending Search

For better ways to cut food prices

As food merchant to a nation, A&P bears a responsibility greater than that demanded of a mere trader in food. Selling food to great numbers of families involves the well-being of millions of people. Reducing the nation's food bill calls for more than the slashing of grocery prices.

It calls for everlasting watchfulness for better methods of food growing and producing, of shipping, of handling and storing, of marketing and retailing food—command of every invention and every means known to man for assisting the flow of food from its sources to the store counter.

Because A&P assumes the entire task of bringing food from producer to consumer, its responsibility to the public is greater than if it performed but a small part. Its search for better methods must be never-ending. Its way of lowering the cost of food to the consumer must be the best.

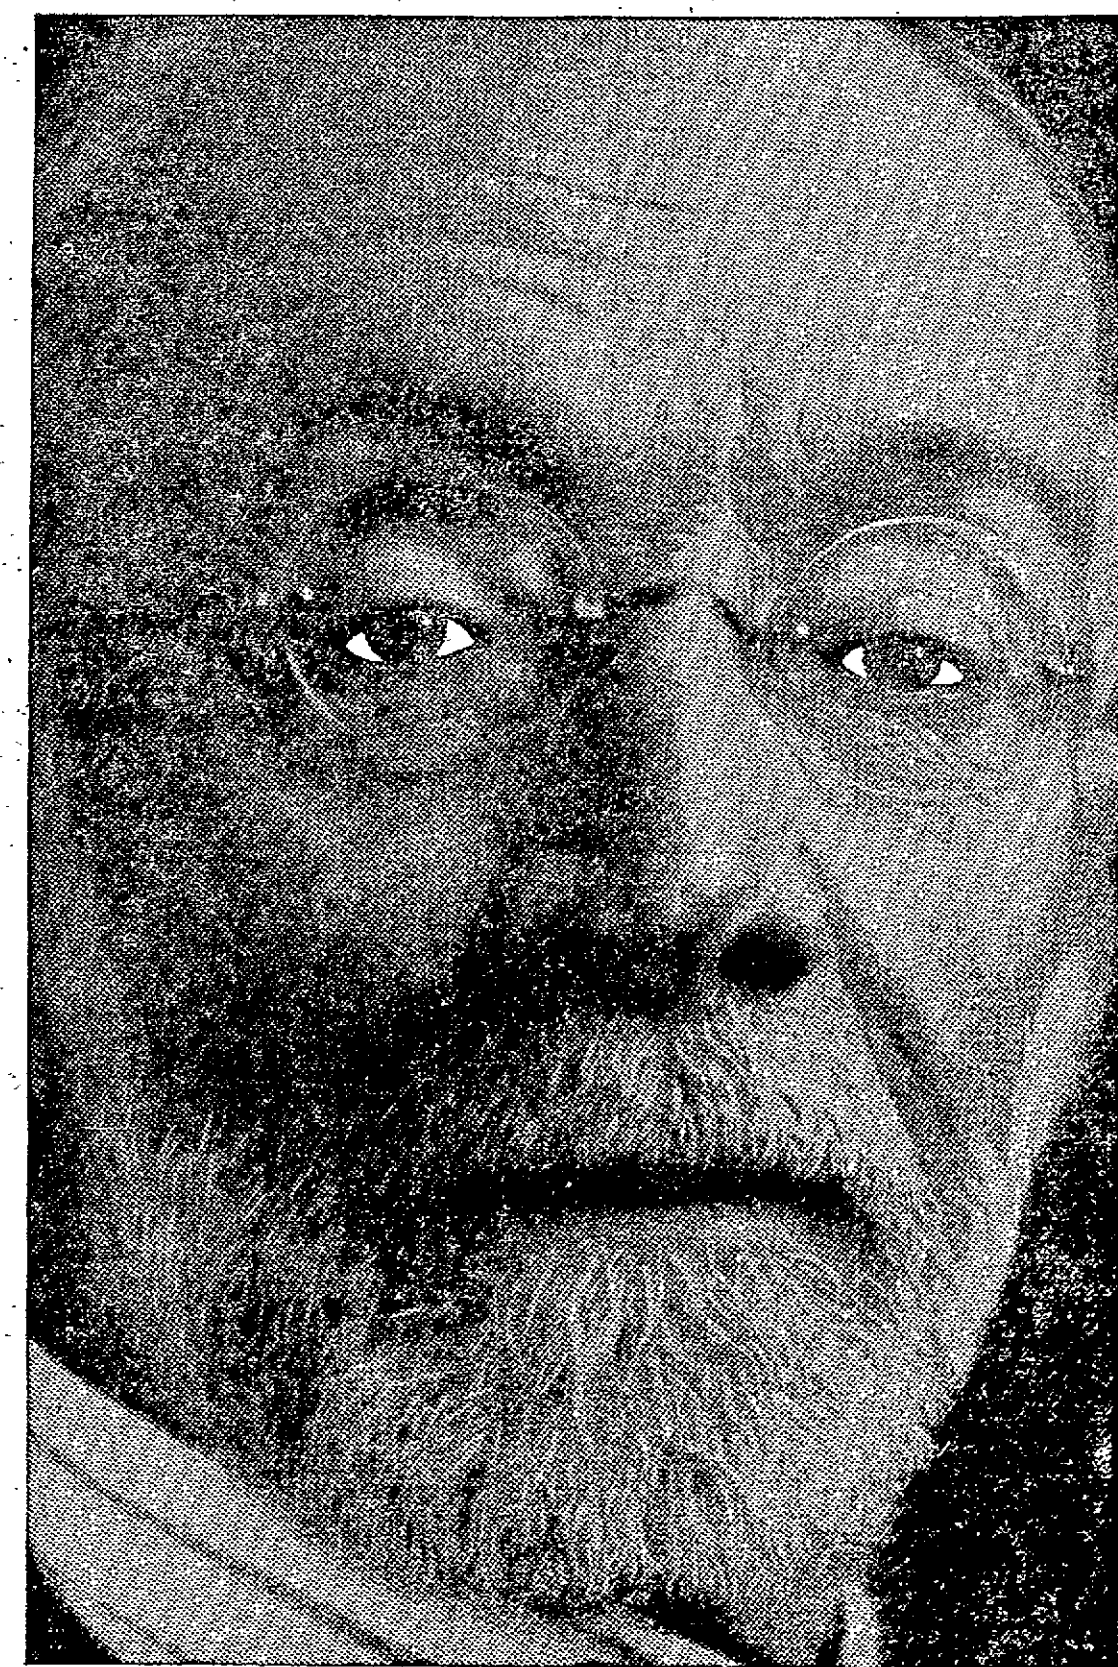

A&P makes food prices low by the best methods of Today. A&P will keep food prices low by the best methods of Tomorrow.

Eagles To Hold State Aerie Night

In an attempt to strike at the unemployment situation, the Fraternal Order of Eagles has been holding a series of State Aerie Night meetings all over Wisconsin for the past few weeks. Appleton aerie will observe its State Aerie Night at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Eagle hall, with several of the state officers in attendance to help the local lodge in launching a movement to wipe out unemployment in Appleton. At this time the position of Fraternal Order of Eagles will be explained in detail to the members and the plan for fighting to eliminate the unemployment periods in industrial life will be outlined.

The national organization of Eagles, numbering over 600,000 members, has back of it many successful crusades for social justice, and is determined to lead in the solution of this great problem facing the country at the present time. At the national convention in San Francisco, Calif., in August, a resolution was passed authorizing the grand president to appoint a commission to draft a resolution, the statements of which were to be the basis of bills to be introduced in the Senate of the United States and in the House of Representatives providing for the creation of a Federal Industrial Commission having all powers necessary to deal with the economic problems that underlie unemployment. The Grand Aerie commission was given full powers to represent the Eagles and was authorized to spend such money of the Grand Aerie as is necessary to carry out the intent of the resolution.

State officers who will be present at this meeting are Edwin Dowe, Beaver Dam, state president; Dr. William T. Doyle, Fond du Lac, state vice president; Al Lautenbach, Plymouth, state treasurer; and Harry R. McLogan, Milwaukee, state organizer. Letters have been mailed to each member of Appleton aerie urging him to attend. This is the first time that letters have been sent to individual members by the state aerie.

Stars in Love Tangles

It seems that a movie queen nowadays just can't make up her mind, even about the same man. Above is Pola Negri, once the fiancée of Rudolph Valentino, who has just filed a second divorce suit in Paris courts against Prince Serge Mdivani, left, after withdrawing the first one and effecting a temporary reconciliation. Below are Alan Roscoe, stage star, and Barbara Bedford, the actress, who were first married in 1921, divorced in 1928 and now have announced plans to re-wed at Los Angeles. CHILDREN OF FUTURE MAY LIVE ON AIR

London—Your grandchildren may find making a living much easier than you have found it for, according to eminent scientists. They will get much of their food, clothing and necessities right out of the air.

Dr. Livingston, presiding at the Society of Chemical Industry here recently, predicted that chemists will one day shorten Nature's works and, instead of gaining necessities for life through plants, animals and other material things, will extract them from the air.

Already a means of speeding up Nature's methods has been found. Carbonic acid extracted from the air has been converted into methane, or coal gas, without the intervention of plant life. From coal gas many useful products can be obtained. Thus our descendants may seek upward into the air for their fuel, and for a large part of their raw materials, instead of burrowing into the ground for them as we do.

WOMEN AS PRIESTS

London—The Society for the Ministry of Women, an interdenominational body, made a statement here recently that it was greatly disappointed that the bishops have failed to recommend not only the admission of women to the priesthood, but the placing of deaconesses on the same footing as men deacons. Theological principles is the reason given for not accepting women as priests.

Believe India Princes' Days Are Numbered Now

BY JAMES P. HOWE

Bombay (AP)—The days of the Indian princes are numbered, say the National Congress party leaders who are carrying on Mahatma Gandhi's campaign for independence.

Gandhi long has contended that existence of the Indian self-governing states is a serious hindrance to complete independence for British India and the Congress scheme makes provision for "attending" to the ruling chiefs soon after the Nationalists come into power.

The princes naturally want no such change of government. While they have a number of grievances against Great Britain in the present struggle they are loyal to the British empire and in no mood to place themselves and their subjects under an elected Indian parliament.

There are nearly 600 Indian states with a population of 70,000,000, embracing the widest variety of territory and jurisdiction. The area of the states is a good one-third of the whole of India. They vary in size from Lava, covering only 19 square miles, to Hyderabad, which is almost as large as Italy and has 13,000,000 people.

The Indian princes have become greatly concerned by the spread of Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign and the Maharaja of Bikaner has appealed to his colleagues to take advantage of the round table conference in London next October. At the same time the Maharaja of Udaipur issued a clarion call for peace.

"I earnestly appeal to my countrymen in general and to Rajputs in particular for loyalty and to take a firm stand on the side of the government and to do what they can to terminate all movements calculated to defy law and order," said the Udaipur manifesto.

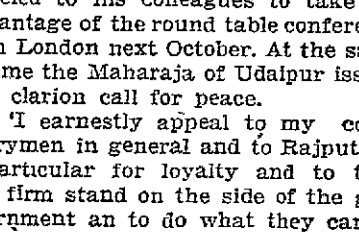

In a statement favoring the rule of Britain the Maharaja of Bikaner said: "If the round table conference is to do good and aid in satisfactorily solving the problems of Indian states it is of the utmost importance that the Indian problem should be handled on non-party lines by which alone can we hope to see India and Great Britain once again standing shoulder to shoulder for all time to the mutual advantage of both."

"Revolution must be put down and no government worthy of the name can abdicate its functions. Tremendous issues are at stake and never has there been greater need than today for bold statesmanship and courageous action."

The Congress party claims that slavery and forced labor exist in the native states, and one of the aims is to do away with this. The Nationalists contend that the census of 1921 showed there were slave communities in many of the Western Indian States Agency, including the states of Kathiawar, in Rajputana, and Central India alone, they assert, there were 160,735 slaves of the Chakr and Daroga classes.

"The slaves, Hindu and Moslem alike, with their wives and children," says a Congress statement, "are owned, body and soul by the princes."

Supreme Court Bench Complete First Time Since Death Of Justice Crownhart

The Wisconsin supreme court met at Madison last week with a complete bench for the first time since the death of Justice Charles Crownhart last spring. Appointment of Prof. John D. Wickham, of the university law school, and George B. Nelson, Stevens Point attorney, to the high court by Gov. Kohler last month filled the last vacant seats on the bench. The complete court is shown in the above picture. From left to right, the justices are as follows: John D. Wickham, Oscar M. Fritz, Walter C. Owen, Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry, Chester A. Fowler, Edward T. Fairchild, and George B. Nelson. The full bench today writes an end to one of the greatest turnovers in supreme court personnel in the U. S. since Gov. Kohler assumed the executive chair of the state less than two years ago, five new members have been placed on the court. Justice Charles Crownhart, E. Ray Stevens, Frank E. Schwaier, and A. J. Vinje were taken by death. The fifth, Justice Christian Doerflinger resigned because of poor health.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

HIGH SCHOOL FAILURE

A certain group of children enter high school when they should have entered some other sort of training school. That is not their fault but ours because they could only go to the place we offered. We offered the wrong course and they failed. That group we will soon take care of in schools of adjusted curricula.

How about the other great group of children who fail? They did good work in the elementary schools. There is no reason inherent in their nature to prevent their doing good work in high school. Yet they fail. They come unprepared. They are late and absent. They do careless, untidy work that shows lack of thought and lack of time.

These are adolescent children. They are growing very fast. Their growth uses up a tremendous amount of energy and unless they are carefully guarded they exhaust themselves on things that do not help them in school. They like to dance, to go to parties, to take long rides. After a day in school they have no energy for this. Putting their desires first, they discover that there is no time, no strength, no desire for school work. The teacher struggles along in vain.

The high school pupil ought to be almost self directing, but the sad truth of the matter is that he is far from it. This makes things very

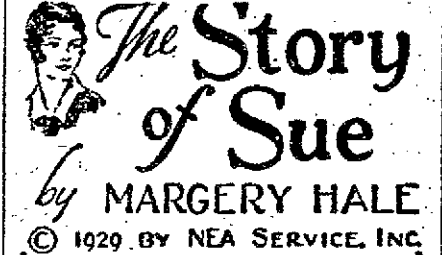

REFORMATORY INMATES TAKE EXTENSION WORK

Seventy-four of the 751 inmates at the Green Bay reformatory are taking work under the direction of the University of Wisconsin Extension division, according to E. M. Garrow, field representative for the division.

Courses now being studied at the institution are: Commercial law, bookkeeping and accounting, mathematics, aeronautics, architectural drawing, radio engineering, steam engineering, show card writing, mechanical drawing, theory of music, mathematics of life insurance, high school credit courses, and others.

All inmates who have not completed the eighth grade are required to take work that is offered in the institution, under the direction of E. M. Garrow, director of education. Unless they have completed the eighth grade they are not permitted to take advantage of work offered by the division.

Although the preparatory education of inmates in the institution varies from the third grade to college graduates, a large number are coming in this fall who have had educational training beyond the eighth grade, Mr. Garrow stated.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

"Of course," Sue's voice lost its flippancy as Jack asked if he might ask her a question. "Then... perhaps it isn't any of my business, but I kind of think it is... I want it to be... are you planning on leaving the law firm?" "No I haven't thought of it at all, why?"

"Oh, I wondered. I was afraid that you might," he didn't tell her of Corrinne's hints.

"And you don't want to lose a stenographer just when she learned to take dictation the right way, I can't blame you."

Jack didn't answer. Just watched her through lazy eyes that Sue sensed weren't half so lazy as they were trying to appear. She was wondering why he had asked if she were leaving, was just starting to ask him, when the door bell rang.

Sue started nervously. Every time she sensed something a little different in Jack's attitude something interrupted. But she was probably only imagining any interest anyway, she told herself.

Sue excused herself and went to the door. She didn't try to hide her surprise when she saw her guests. Barbara, Jean and Joan Hardy were all standing there.

"We decided that we would come and wait for Ted here," Barbara said, as though she was the spokes-man for the crowd. "He called Joan and said he would be a little late... he had to come home and dress... so we thought we could wait here."

"We won't disturb you, will we?" Jean asked more courteously.

"Of course not," Sue answered. "Come right in. The living room is more cheerful than this room. We have a fire..." Her voice drifted on. Inwardly she was feeling an

Columbia, Crew at End of Ocean Flight

America and England again were linked by air when, as these NEA Service (Appleton Post-Crescent) photos show, the veteran monoplane Columbia flown by Capt. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry Connor, landed at Croydon Aerodrome, near London. The plane, same one in which Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine crossed to Germany, had been forced down at the Scilly Islands, off the Cornwall coast, but later landed safely, as you see above, at its destination. The picture at the right shows Connor, left, and Boyd in the cockpit, where a dense crowd at the airport virtually held them prisoners for half an hour. Their smiles betrayed no trace of the hazardous twenty-three and a half hour flight, most of it bucking clouds, fog and heavy northerly winds.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"LIBRA"

If October 22nd is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 6 noon, from 5:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and 10:30 p. m. to 11:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Guard your physical welfare on this date, as accidents are shown! Disruptive influences within the home, which may be offset by tact and unspoken thoughts. Money made on one hand, and lost on the other. Prepare for some distant news or grief!

The child born on this October 22nd will have great strength of will, determination, and power of concentration, and may be bent, but not broken. It will have a quick mental grasp and comprehensiveness, and will be an A-student. It will enjoy much popularity and have many friends.

You are a self-important personage, and if you are not actually dominating and arrogant, you are, from the other person's point of view, the embodiment of all that is cold and hard and unsympathetic. You seem to be imbued with the unshakable conviction that you and yours are the pick of creation, and that the rest of the world is comprised of the "profane vulgaris." You are inclined to carry a chip on your shoulder and as you travel through life, you are on the lookout for grievances, and are ready to discover at every turn that you have been imposed upon. You adopt an ultra-critical attitude, and refuse to be impressed by anything and are capable of traveling from coast to coast and finding all barren. You are fastidious, unadaptable and unappreciative.

Your superiority complex, however, does not make you a creature of all faults and on virtues. Your "nerve" will carry you far, and you do not know the meaning of fear. You have a fertile mind, but prejudice makes you somewhat narrow in your views. You are a generous spender, and among your friends, you display a good disposition, and are a good sport. You will make a splendid family man, or a good wife and mother, as the case may be. You stick by your guns through thick and thin, and your convictions are not wishy-washy. You have spirit!

WE WOMEN

By Betty Brainerd

HELPING THE NEWLYWEDS

"Dear Betty Brainerd:

"My daughter was married last year to a young man of whom I disapproved, not because of anything fundamentally wrong but because he struck me as being a spoiled youngster who needed a bunch of hard knocks before he would amount to anything.

"He was making a good salary but had a lot of debts and I urged them to wait until he was on his feet financially before taking a permanent or serious step. My wife, however, sided with the boy and girl and they nagged me until I gave my consent."

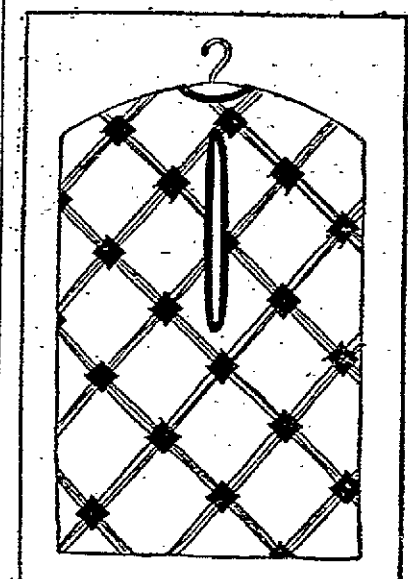

"The result is that my daughter has turned to me every few months for money to 'tide them over.' She is extravagant and not used to hardship and I hated to think of her doing without things. Her husband doesn't appear to have any pride in the matter. In fact, I strongly suspect him of helping her cook up successful schemes for getting a touch. They seem to think it is no more than I ought to do."

"So far I have helped them when she has asked but I don't like his attitude, or hers, for that matter, and wonder if I'm not doing them more harm than good."

Have You Heard —

An acceptable Christmas present for apartment house dwellers, college or others who live in small space, is a clothes-hanger laundry bag.

Take two yards of printed cotton, in colors matching the interior decorating scheme of the recipient's room. Cut it 20 inches wide and French seam it down the sides and across the bottom.

At the top, where the two yards crease, cut out a small circle and bind it in color. Stitch down in slanting fashion, from this hole, making the top fit neatly over an ordinary coat hanger, with its hook coming out through the hole. Bind a slit down the front to put in and get out the soiled laundry. This type of bag stays comparatively flat against the closet door, is handy for traveling and can be kept clean very easily.

To remove iron rust, lay the cloth containing the stain over a bowl containing a quart of water and a teaspoonful of borax. Apply to the stain hydrochloric acid drop by drop until the stain brightens through it. Continue until the stain brightens and then immediately pour hot water through it. Continue until the stain disappears, rinsing each time.

To preserve cut flowers, place as much of the stems of flowers in water as there is above water. If vase isn't deep enough for this cut the stems.

Water stains on varnished wood surfaces vanish if rubbed with a cloth wet in water containing household ammonia.

NEW VATICAN STATION READY IN TWO MONTHS

Vatican City (P) — This little Papal state is progressing rapidly in the installation of its radio, telephone and electrical apparatus.

The new telephone exchange is about ready for service. It has 600 telephones, all inside Vatican City. One of them is placed in the dome of St. Peter's. From this exchange the Pope could, if he wished, talk to any major country of Europe or America.

An electric power station is also nearing completion. It will supply current for lighting, for the telephones and for the radio transmitter. The radio station will be ready within another two months. It will operate on a short wavelength, between 20 and 50 meters. This will be for long-distance transmission, for instance to the United States, where the voice of the Pope could be picked up by an American chain and rebroadcast. It also will communicate with the Rome radio station of 50 kilowatts, which will broadcast for Europe.

KELLNHAUSER BOWLS 593 IN K. C. LEAGUE

Menasha—R. Kellnhauser topped 593 pins to lead the Cordovas to a three game victory over the Santa Marias in Knights of Columbus bowling Monday evening. Kellnhauser's scores were 232, 167 and 194.

The Pintas defeated the Crusaders in the first two of three games played, but dropped the third tilt by 25 pins. The LaSalles took two out of three from the Navigators and the DeSotas won two out of three from the Balboas.

HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD TO INVADE E. DE PERE

Calder Works to Develop Scoring Power in Revamped Lineup

Menasha—A stiff workout Monday afternoon began the week's preparation for the Menasha high school grid battle against East DePere at DePere next Saturday. Although the Menasha eleven swamped a Two Rivers invasion in the third night game at Butte des Morts field Friday evening, Calder is working harder than ever on the revamped lineup that chalked up the 27 to 0 win last week.

The DePere game will be the second out-of-town tilt for the Caldermen this season and the fifth game on the schedule. Wins over Berlin and Two Rivers have been scored but Oconto and New London defeated the Menasha squad.

Novakowski, Ankla, and Makofski, who starred in the Two Rivers tilt, have been added to the effective ball toters available for use during the remainder of the season. Stachowicz will use him in the line instead of at fullback during the remaining games and one of the second string backs may be moved into a regular position at full.

The next home game scheduled for the local gridlers will be played Nov. 7 against Kaukauna high school, which has been piling up a string of victories in early season games. The tilt will be staged a week before the homecoming game against Neenah high school Nov. 14.

CITY WOULD DISPOSE OF PAVING BRICKS

Menasha—Disposition of a large quantity of paving bricks, stored on the Butte des Morts school playground, is being considered by city officials. The bricks were placed in their temporary location when the street car tracks were taken up by the Wisconsin-Michigan power company and an attempt will be made to sell them to some contractor. Officials hope to have the grounds clear before the homecoming football game between Neenah and Menasha and the dedication of Butte des Morts night football field, Nov. 14.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

HENRY G. BAKKEN
Menasha—Funeral services for Henry G. Bakken, 55, were held from his home on Kaukauna-st. at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, the Rev. John B. Erickson officiating. The services were conducted by the Menasha Masonic lodge and interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Bakken, who was a resident of this city for 1 year, is survived by his wife and one son, Kenneth.

NEW CONSERVATION BRANCH IS FAVORED

Escanaba, Mich. (AP)—Establishment of an upper Michigan branch of the state conservation commission with a resident deputy in charge was advocated here yesterday in a political speech by Atty. Gen. Wilbur M. Tucker, candidate for governor.

"Conservation," he said, "must always be responsive to the needs of this northern country. It is for this reason I favor appointment of a deputy director, a resident of northern Michigan, to administer conservation work in your district." He said he favored a pension system to eradicate poor houses.

RIVER FALLS YOUTH THOUGHT TO BE SUICIDE

River Falls, Wis. (AP)—Donald Peskar, 17, was found dead, a 22 calibre rifle bullet through his head, on a side road east of River Falls Monday. The youth had called on a girl earlier in the evening and had left her home in good spirits, she said. The coroner said it was suicide.

Buenos Aires Is Wonder City Of South America

Washington, D. C.—Buenos Aires, wonder city of Argentina, and re-tropolis of the southern hemisphere, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society. The bulletin is a communication to the society from Frederick Simpich, who recently conducted an aerial survey party from New York to the Argentine capital. "Fly 8,000 miles south from New York, along new-blazed seaplane paths that hug the western hemisphere," writes Mr. Simpich. "Turn into the vast, muddy mouth of the River Plate—in South America—and fly 150 miles upstream. There is glittering Buenos Aires, one of the most remarkable cities ever built.

"No city in the United States is so important to us as Buenos Aires is to Argentina. It handles four-fifths of all Argentina's trade, and houses 26 per cent of all the nation's ten million inhabitants. All its 2,000,000 people are either Europeans, or of European descent. This is true of only one other Latin American city—Montevideo.

"Three times as big as Spain's largest city, modern Buenos Aires—as expanded and rebuilt in all the last 30 years—is conspicuous in all the world for its magic growth."

"The whole 25,000-mile railway system of Argentina has its focus here—the finest railroads in South America. No great motor highway radiate from the city because the vast pampas afford no road-making materials. But by rail and river Buenos Aires handles more than half

LEATHER TANNERIES WILL SUSPEND WORK

Pfister and Voegel Closes Last of Five Plants—May Resume Operations

Milwaukee (AP)—The last of the Pfister and Voegel leather tanneries, once one of Milwaukee's leading industries, employing 3,000 persons, will soon be closed and only the staff necessary to maintain the real estate holdings of the company will be retained.

Abraham Christiansen, secretary-treasurer of the firm, admitted last night that the last of the company's five plants is being closed as soon as new hides on hand could be turned into leather.

"While this is true," he said, "it is a little premature to say that Pfister and Voegel is retiring from the tannery business. While we are liquidating as rapidly as possible no one knows what step will be taken next. I am sure that if it proves at all practicable after we have paid our debts and take stock of ourselves, operations will be resumed.

He said that a bond issue of $2,000,000 will be taken up Nov. 1, following which "extensive investigation and study" will be made and future action based upon it.

In line with the company's policy to maintain an employment level as long as possible, 600 persons have been employed for the last few months, at part-time work. Many of these employees "grew up" with the industry after it was founded in 1847 by Fred Voegel and Guido Pfister.

IT'S EASY

London—For those who have trouble understanding the theories of Prof. Albert Einstein of the fourth dimension, a famous English scientist explains it in the following manner: "It means," he says, "that in a four-dimensional world we could turn a tennis ball inside out without cutting it." There you are. As easy as falling off a log.

COPYRIGHTED TITLE

DRY ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS CLAIM JOB ISN'T EASY

Explain Duties as Attempt to Soft-pedal Liquor Issue. Fails

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Once upon a time there was a president of the United States who thought that the prohibition law could be sidetracked and soft-pedaled and that if the government pretended that there was no serious enforcement problem the people doubtless would forget about it.

Somewhat things didn't work out that way and today the same president's administration is more than willing to let it be known that prohibition enforcement is a very tough problem indeed, and it seems to make the inference that people shouldn't expect too much in view of what the enforcers are up against.

The seeming change of policy, observable in an expansion of frank publicity, not only is an abandonment of the shush-shush idea, but it stands in marked contrast to the past practice of claiming that the Volstead act was being enforced, that the American people were rapidly going dry and that all critics were wicked rumblers.

WICKERSHAM CHANGEOVER
There are, of course, who say that the way is being prepared for the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement to recommend modification. All of which may be true, but this writer has been unable to get anyone in authority to admit it, even privately and confidentially. The occasional utterances of Chairman George W. Wickersham himself might be taken to indicate that sometimes Wickersham thinks one thing and sometimes he thinks another. It seems doubtful whether the commission itself knows what it will recommend, if anything.

Mrs. W. W. Wickersham, who is director, appears to court rather than to shun publicity for his organization and its methods. In one way or another, the administration's realistic attitude toward the job has been indicated two or three times a week.

An official estimate has been advanced that there will be 376,320,718 gallons of spirits, wine and beer available to the people of the United States during the present fiscal year.

FIND LIQUOR PLENTIFUL
That is something like 12 gallons for every adult person, and even the most pronounced wet-doubtless will admit that it seems like more than enough. The illegal beverage liquor anticipated is stated as 73,886,000 gallons of spirits, 118,000 gallons of wine and 648,447,000 gallons of beer.

The figures are cited to show that America's was gawling only about 35 per cent as much alcohol as before the war, but official frankness in admitting the presence of such a tremendous supply after 10 years of enforcement was absolutely unprecedented.

Even more frank was Woodcock's assurance that his men wouldn't molest persons who made wine at home unless they took to selling it.

NEW YORK HEALTH DEPARTMENT RIPS OFF ETHICS COVER

Commissioner Resigns After He Permits Use of Name in Advertisement

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York.—(CPA)—Doctors are talking to themselves. Multitudes die because a medieval system of professional ethics prevents the spread of health information and blocks the progress of preventive medicine. Inoculate the nation with knowledge rather than serums. If circus methods are necessary to save lives, now is the time for public health administrations to open up, under the big top, with a band and a callopie if necessary. Thus the New York department of public health, rips the lid off a national controversy over medical ethics, of which the resignation of Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, New York health commissioner, from the American Medical association, was an incident. Dr. Wynne allowed the use of his name in a tooth paste advertisement. The New York County Medical association preferred charges.

Dr. Wynne resigned, remarking that he had used any and all possible methods to get sound health information before the people, and that he intended to continue to do so.

GETS MANY LETTERS
His office is inundated with letters and newspaper clippings from all over the United States. The national issue of just what doctors and health departments may do in behalf of preventive medicine has been raised.

Edward F. Brown, deputy commissioner of the New York department of public health, and head of the diphtheria prevention commission, was asked by this correspondent to outline the position of the department in this controversy.

"About $1,300,000,000 is spent by advertisers in the United States every year," he said. "That is more than all the combined budgets of all the health departments of the country. A large proportion of this money is spent for advertisements of products having a bearing on public health—food, paint, with its connotation of cleanliness, pharmaceutical products, toilet preparations, heating and ventilating systems, sporting goods, clothing, refrigerating apparatus, sun lamps, and many other commodities.

"The bulk of the companies manufacturing these goods are honest, and they do conscientious research work in their laboratories. But when they want to personalize their appeal, and utilize some nationally known name to get public attention, where do they have to go? To comedians, smooth-talkers, quacks, baseball players, aviators or channel swimmers nowhere else.

"It is conceivable that a physician like Dr. Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins might find a simple means for the prevention of cancer. It might become a nationally marketed pharmaceutical product. Would the endorsement of some great physician carry this message to the people. No. It probably would be put out under the aegis of Babe Ruth or Primo Carneg.

TOOK NO MONEY
Dr. Wynne took no money for the use of his name in a tooth paste advertisement. He took no money in the other similar instances in which his name was used. He consulted only his professional judgment as to whether this advertisement would give him an opportunity to reach large numbers of people with an important and helpful message. It is our contention that this first professional decision as to the soundness of the message to be broadcast should be the only consideration of a physician who has an opportunity to spread knowledge of preventive medicine.

Figures and scenes in the gangland melodrama centering about the shooting of Jack (Legs) Diamond, the east's best known racket chief, in New York, are portrayed above. Diamond, shown upper left in a recent photo, was critically wounded by four bullets fired by unidentified assailants who invaded his room in the Hotel Monticello and fled after the shooting. Lower left is the barred window of the room, on the eighth floor, where Diamond was lying in bed when the gunmen entered. Upper center, at the scene of the shooting, a detective is shown pointing out to Mrs. Elizabeth Mercha, hotel housekeeper, a bullet hole in one of the windows; at the extreme right in the same picture is Police Commissioner Mulrooney and seated beside him is District Attorney Cram. Police sought to learn a fuller story of the crime from pretty Marion Roberts, titian-haired show girl shown at the right after her arrest. She was reported to have been occupying the room which adjoined the gangster's when he was shot. Mrs. Alice Diamond, wife of the racket czar, is pictured lower center, with face covered, as she arrived from her country home a few hours after the shooting in response to a police summons.

"Wouldn't that lay the average big city health department wide open to the dangers of graft?" Mr. Brown was asked.

ADmits-GRaft DANGER
"Of course it would," he replied. "Just as dynamite makes it possible for somebody to be blown up, or an airplane for somebody to be killed. But society has progressed by seizing upon and using new tools, new instruments and new methods and subjugating them to its use. The radio, the cylinder press, the airplane, the vast and effective organization of advertising are all new and magical instruments and they should be subjugated to the one most urgent purpose of safeguarding health, cutting down infant mortality, prolonging life, and lessening the burdens and misery of disease and failure.

"The ethics of Hippocrates didn't figure on the radio and the newspaper. Its also of sanctities would allow children to die rather than that any physician should overstep the bounds of his medieval ethics. Twenty months ago, this department decided that circus methods were just what public health administration needed. It forgot about Hippocrates and went to work on diphtheria immunization. It lowered the death rate 57 per cent and the case rate over 60 per cent. If anyone wants to attack us on the ground of ethical proprieties, we are ready to bring before them hundreds of healthy, happy children who wouldn't have been here if we hadn't gone in for circus methods."

CAREFUL DIET BUNK, SAYS OLD RESIDENT

Rhineland—(CP)—This idea of following a careful diet to cheat death for many years is a "lot of bunkum and hokey," in the opinion of William Walker, who ought to know.

Mr. Walker celebrated his 90th birthday this week by eating a big birthday dinner at the home of his son, Russell Walker, Rhineland. And he intends to go right ahead eating all he wants when he wants it, he said.

"Born down in Ole Kaintuck," Mr. Walker, enlisted at the outbreak of the Civil War, "and fit clear through the war between the states."

Cleveland—(CP)—The University of Wisconsin dairy products team won seventh place at the American Dairy Science association contests. Kansas State Aggies took first. Seventeen schools participated.

DEMOCRAT CLAIMS DISTURBING TO G. O. P.

legislation embarrassing to the president will be put up to him for signature. The question would be whether the Democrats as a party would attempt to pass bills in the house the type that would appeal to a Republican insurgent coalition with the Democrats in the senate. Such legislation would encounter a presidential veto, which would mean that neither house could muster two-thirds to override a veto. If the outcome were a stalemate and little legislation were passed, business might not be worried; but the agony of threatened legislation would no doubt cause uneasiness.

LACKS REAL CONTROL

The president would have no trouble on appropriations or nonpartisan measures but he probably would be annoyed with various investigations of executive departments. No president since President Wilson has really had control of his party in both houses and there has been no cohesive action on the part of either Republicans or Democrats since then. If the Democrats formed a workable organization in the house it would be a problem what they could do on the senate side. With the responsibility of control they could not afford to become a radical party in the house, yet they have in the senate voted with the radicals on many issues. Factionalism has been of negligible importance in the Democratic ranks. It always is that way with the minority. Whether a radical faction will appear on the Democratic side if they have the majority would depend on the temper of the country as revealed in the forthcoming election.

But whatever the outcome of the vote for senators and representatives next month, the newly elected congress members will not take their seats until a year from next December unless Mr. Hoover were to call an extra session — something he would avoid if the Republicans lost the house. So whatever the election on Nov. 4 may mean, the wishes of the voters probably will not be translated into action for 13 months thereafter.

Lawrence And Carroll Gridders Clash Saturday

GAME IS FEATURE ATTRACTION OF VIKE HOMECOMING

Blue and White Has Never Lost to Pioneers on an Appleton Gridiron

GILBERT ST. MITCHELL, assistant coach of the Lawrence college football team, was the big boss Monday evening up at Whiting field when the Viking gridders turned out for their first drill preparatory to the big game of the season, the Viking homecoming game with Carroll college of Waukegan.

Coach Eddie Kotal was away last evening giving speeches to a bunch of Wisconsin valley youngsters and that left Gil the major domo. He sent the squad through easy work-outs designed to limber up a few muscles that may be creaking as a result of last week's game with Hamline and then review fundamentals.

Tuesday night Kotal again took over the squad and began heavy drills designed to whip the Blue and White into condition for Saturday's big game. There is much work to be done, too, for it has been announced that Kenneth Laird, half the Lawrence captaincy, will be missing Saturday as will Charles Barnes, a quarterback. Laird has a broken jaw and Barnes a badly twisted ankle.

The Hamline game Saturday which the Vikings won 21 and 8 revealed that Kotal has a pretty good first team but that his reserves are a big question. Accordingly they will get a lot of extra pounding this week while the regulars take things easy.

Carroll has a first class aggregation this fall if comment by Milwaukee sports scribes means anything. Last week the Pioneers downed Beloit 25 and 0, in a most impressive manner. Their biggest weapon seems to be the forward pass. However, the running attack is nothing to be passed over lightly and will cause the Viking forwards much trouble.

Reports also indicate that the Pioneers' biggest weakness is at guard. Coach Norris Armstrong has been having trouble with the position but seems to be well satisfied with the rest of his lineup which includes several veterans. The loss of Orlebeke, a quarterback, a few days ago was looked upon as a blow to the Pioneers. However, Ottley has been filling the position like a veteran and seems to fill the bill nicely.

"Y" BOYS COMPETE IN MARATHON SWIM

Youngsters to "Swim" Niagara River 2,700 Yard Endurance Test

A marathon swim which, theoretically at least, will take the boys down the Niagara river and over the Falls, has been mapped out for youngsters in the Older Boy division of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The swim was mapped out and is being handled by George Nelson, assistant physical director, of the association.

Monday and Thursday afternoons from 5:15 to 5:45, the boys have their regular swimming period. Five minutes will be used to permit "warming up" and then the youths will make their giant swimming for 15 minutes. The one that covers the most distance will be adjudged the day's leader, the results being totaled to ascertain the leader in the week. The swim will take about six weeks and free style will be permitted except on one day when the backstroke is required.

The total distance of the swim is estimated as 2,700 yards, a map of the Niagara valley showing the route the boys make daily. Six youngsters had entered the grind Monday.

Originally plans were to swim the Fox river valley, because it is closer to home. However, no map long enough was available so the Niagara map was used instead, special time being allowed for the more treacherous places along the route.

HOCKEY WAR LOOMS OVER CHICAGO TEAMS

Chicago (AP)—Another Chicago hockey war appeared in the offing today.

In a reply yesterday to a statement attributed to president Frank Calder of the National Hockey league, in which the American league was called an outlaw organization President William F. Grant of the latter group, warned the older circuit to keep "hands off."

Grant said his league's refusal to renew the draft agreement with the National league, caused Calder to make the charge, which he said was unfounded. He said the American league had found the draft unsatisfactory, but had no intention of tampering with player contracts held by National league clubs.

Grant said the American league had violated no territorial rights by putting a team into Chicago, and warned the National league to not tamper with players to contracts held by the Shamrocks, Chicago's entrant in the American league.

START WORK SOON ON MAROON FIELD HOUSE

Chicago (AP)—A new field house, for which University of Chicago alumni and students have waited so long, today was a step nearer realization when workmen started raising a group of apartment buildings on the site where the sports building is to arise.

The plans call for a building costing more than $500,000, and actual construction work is expected to start early next year.

Hornsby A Keen Judge Of Good Baseball Talent

BY JOHN B. FOSTER Copyright 1930

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball men and followers of the game in general have found in his post-season discussions no more interesting study than the moves by which Rogers Hornsby is preparing to set up the Chicago Cubs for 1931.

Hornsby is one of the most keenly observant ball players of any generation. When he was with the St. Louis Cardinals he studied the players of other teams and had a remarkable fund of knowledge in regard to

ARMY MEETS YALE ELEVEN SATURDAY

Princeton Tangles With Navy, and Harvard With Dartmouth

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

New York (AP)—A half dozen games, all of them renewals of ancient rivalries and some of them involving sectional title hopes, top the east's football program this Saturday.

Not even so important and inter-sectional contest as that between Pitt and Notre Dame at Pittsburgh can take away much interest from such duels as Yale-Army, Harvard-Dartmouth, Princeton-Navy, New York University-Fordham, Brown-Holy Cross, and Lafayette-Washington and Jefferson.

Army's veteran line and youthful back will invade the Yale bowl in high hopes of avenging the 21-13 beating it took a year ago. These old rivals have played 23 football games since 1893 with Yale winning 18, and Army five, with six ties.

Football fans will have to go back even further to discover the first meeting between Harvard and Dartmouth. They inaugurated their series in 1882 and since then Harvard has won 27 games and Dartmouth seven with two ties. More to the point perhaps is the fact that Harvard has won the last seven battles with the crimson.

CHUCK WIGGINS AGAIN DOING LITTLE TRAINING

Indianapolis (AP)—Charles (Chuck) Wiggins, local heavyweight boxer whose pugilistic ability has brought him fame and at times misfortune, sat in solitary confinement in the city jail today as the result of "a little training."

He was arrested late last night after he was alleged to have "cleaned out" a restaurant, chasing patrons into the street. Police said he gave them no trouble although on a previous occasion he soundly drubbed three officers who attempted to arrest him in a northside hotel lobby.

"Just getting a little training, that's all," Wiggins remarked as he climbed into the patrol wagon. After he had fought three prisoners in the city jail, he was removed to solitary confinement.

ORANGE GRIDDERS TO MEET CHAIRS

Seek First Valley Conference Win Saturday; Have Lost 3 Straight

Appleton high school football team will return to the seasons Saturday afternoon when it takes a long jaunt into enemy territory, resting at Sheboygan long enough for the weekly battle.

The Orange has done nothing since the weekend on Oct. 7 and 8, for the third loss this year. However, there were long drills and new plays for the Shieldsman last week when the weather man didn't throw a crip in proceedings.

Monday evening the squad was sent back to work as Coach Shields started a program designed to bring him his first valley conference victory. Drills will be continued all week and with all the lame and halt now in first class condition, the maximum should be accomplished in daily workouts.

Sheboygan is reported to have a light but exceedingly fast football team this fall. The squad has been defeated, however, but offers plenty of opposition and a real trouble-some afternoon. Playing on their own field and with the fans goading them on, the Chairs will give everything to crash through with a win.

So far this season, Appleton's losses have been passed off as results of inexperience on the part of the Orange. However, the boys have been under fire three times now and have been drilling long and hard during the week so they should be able to accomplish something soon.

Sports Question Box

Question—Who is regarded as the greatest defensive coach in the country?

Answer—Most qualified critics think that Robert Zuppke is.

Question—Are players eligible to play in the world series who report to a championship team in the last week of the season?

Answer—No.

Question—What is the status of Al Foreman? Does he stand out as a lightweight contender?

Answer—Foreman is Junior and lightweight champion of Canada and holder of the Lord Londale belt, emblematic of the lightweight title.

ANOTHER APPLETON BOY AT SETON HALL

Carl Kunitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Kunitz, has gone east and enrolled in Seton Hall, South Orange, N. J. where he joins his brother Bob, who and several other valley grid and basketball stars who are attending the eastern institute. Football teams at Seton Hall are coached by Richard "Red" Smith, Combined Locks, while Dan Steinberg, Appleton, is assisting and will coach basketball.

GATOR CAPTAIN GAINED MORE THAN U. C. TEAM

Chicago (AP)—On the basis of statistics, Leroy "Red" Ethel, captain of the University of Florida football team, is better as the whole Chicago backfield.

Carrying the ball 28 times Saturday, Ethel gained 299 yards, more than the maroon's gained all afternoon in losing by 19 to 9.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

VEN football has begun to feel the pressure of this "economic readjustment."

... There are seats for 55,000 in the new Notre Dame stadium but at least 15,000 of these were vacant in the Navy game.

... The stadium at Madison was not quite half-filled for the game in which the Badger beat the Maroons.

... Michigan, with seats for 55,000, played to a house of about 45,000 before the Bollermakers.

... Northwestern exhibited its act with Ohio State before a crowd of 35,000, which means that 10,000 people decided to put that dough in the bank.

... Stanford was expected to draw capacity at Minneapolis, but here again 10,000 people turned Scotch at the last minute and decided to save the ante.

WOLVERINE FANS SEE ANOTHER GREAT QUARTER IN NEWMAN

Compare New Leader of Grid Squad With Famous Bennie Friedman

BY WILLIAM WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Up at Ann Arbor, Mich., they are beginning to talk about "another Bennie Friedman," when they speak of young Harry Newman, Michigan's quarterback.

Newman, whose sensational work against Purdue and Ohio State, has been largely responsible for keeping the Wolverines in the Big Ten championship struggle, may not be another Friedman, but his play bears the Friedman influence.

After Newman was graduated from Eastern Northern high, he spent a summer in a camp in which Friedman was a counselor. Newman asked and received a lot of instruction in the art of forward passing, of which Friedman is master, and the youngster's showing against Ohio State last week when he tossed two passes for touchdowns, was a big reward for his hours of practice. He also has an educated toe, as has Friedman, and kicked both points after touchdowns against Purdue, producing the necessary margin in the 14-13 triumph.

WOLVES OVER-CONFIDENT

Coach Harry Kipke of the Wolverines, is battling against over-confidence among his men. Their victory over Ohio State and the beating the Illini took from Northwestern, has made the Wolverines feel that Saturday's game will be a romp. Kipke, however, figures that Illini will be Michigan's toughest opponent of the campaign.

Coach Bob Zuppke made some changes in his Illinois backfield yesterday. Yanuskus was left at halfback, but with Gil Beary injured, the other post went to Hunter Russell, an end. Captain Ott Robinson was shifted from full to quarterback and Art Sutton, reserve back, went to Robinson's station.

Purdue and Wisconsin, which tangle in the other Big Ten championship game Saturday, got down to business immediately. Coach Noble Kizer of the Boilermakers discovered that Alex Yunevitch, good fullback, will be out of the game because of a shoulder injury, and Horstman was given the job. A hunt for another fullback is being conducted. The Badgers were given new plays yesterday and Coach Glenn Tibbels indicated the Boilermakers would see some passes, along with the powerful Wisconsin running game.

IRISH TAKES DAY OFF

Work in the other camps was light. Notre Dame's regulars were given a day off, as were Northwestern's first stringers. Indiana, which goes to Dallas, Tex., to meet Southern Methodist Saturday, drilled in doors to become accustomed to the heat, while Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago squad hustled through a short drill in fundamentals, before heading down on preparation for the University of Mississippi. Along with Captain Bratt Van Nieu, St. Temple, veteran halfback, was on the casualty list and probably will not be available Saturday.

Minnesota and Ohio State and Iowa, which have open dates this week, listened to lectures on what was wrong last Saturday and will not get heavy drills until Wednesday.

ROSENBLOOM TO MEET ABIE BAIN

Fight Shows Scarcity of Talent in Light Heavyweight Class

New York (AP)—Maxie Rosenberg's defense of his light heavyweight championship against Abie Bain of Newark in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night serves as an excellent proof of the scarcity of first-class 175-pounders at the present time.

Bain is a fair workman but he does not appear to have a chance against Rosenberg, a canny veteran who has slugged and roughed his way to victory over most of the good light heavyweights in the last two or three years.

Only a year ago the division was filled with first-class fighting men such as Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Slattery, Leo Lomsick, Larry Johnson, Tuffy Griffiths, Jimmy Braddock, Rosenberg and a host of others. Most of these abandoned the 175 pound class to go after bigger game, none of them with conspicuous success.

The Bain-Rosenbloom bout is at the championship route of 15 rounds. Joe Scalafaro, New York bantam, tackles Pete Santol of Norway in the opening ten, Willard Dix, of Bellingham, Wash., meets Bob Olin, New York heavyweight.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Philadelphia—Eddie Shea, Chicago, knocked out Johnny Datto, Cleveland, (4) Phil Zwick, Cleveland, stopped Eddie Cool, Philadelphia, (3).

Manchester, England—Al Foreman, Montreal, knocked out George Rose, Bristol, (6).

Jersey City—Young Zaccarino, Jersey City, defeated Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., fouled (3) non-title.

Salt Lake City—Manuel Quintana, Tampa, Fla., outpointed Spig Myers, Idaho, (15).

Beloit Claims Greatest Freshman Squad In Years

Although the varsity football outlook at Beloit college is darker than the right field bleachers at an American Glants baseball game, a ray of sunlight blazes through whenever any one mentions this year's freshmen football eleven.

Forty-three candidates are out for the squad and among them are some of the most promising lads ever to enroll here.

The yearlings are coached by Fred Schildhauer and Dyke Gorman and it is possible for the Gold mentors to place a line on the field that averages 200 pounds from end to end.

BESHORE PLAYS STAR ROLE

One of the best of the new men is Ed Beshore, a rugged halfback, weighing 178 pounds from Granite City, Ill. Beshore is fast, shifty and hard to haul down. His defensive work is always high-class and in a scrimmage against the varsity recently he intercepted a forward pass.

Howard Cox, 230 pound end, who played last year on the Northwestern University freshmen squad, is a great prospect. Despite his hefty, Cox is superbly built and surprisingly active.

Another end, C. A. Carlson of Chicago, 175 pounds, bids fair to be a varsity star by next fall.

BUSINESS MUST SOLVE SALVATION ITSELF, IT SEEMS

Federal Reserve Board Not Expected to Take Extraordinary Action

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press

Washington—(CPA)—Expectation that some extraordinary action by the federal reserve board or the federal reserve banks will patch up the business fabrics and obliterate the depression is unwarranted. This is the opinion expressed by individual financiers who have conferred here with reserve board members and by government officials.

Dr. Ralph A. Young, of the finance and investment division of the department of commerce, said today that a central banking system, even though it has abundant reserves, is often quite unable in times of depression to exercise any influence in increasing the amount of currency and credit in use or in bringing up the prices of commodities.

"All a central bank can do," he said, "is to lower its discount rate for the benefit of the business community. If at that lower rate more currency and credit are not called for by the commercial banks and through them by business concerns whose financial condition warrants the extension of credit, there is no apparent way of injecting more currency into circulation or of increasing bank credits."

Dr. Young maintains, and many financiers agree with him, that the actual use of currency or bank credit does not increase by virtue of the fact that central bank holdings are large, but he points out that excess bank reserves remain for the use of business after business has picked up. In other words, business can get plenty of money when business is good.

KINGSFORD-SMITH FLIES TO FIANCEE

Miss Mary Powell Ill at Sydney but Indisposition Is Not Serious

Brisbane, Queensland, Australia—(P)—Ving Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith landed his "Southern Cross, Jr." here at 4:05 P. M. today and came within 450 miles of the side of his fiancée, Miss Mary Powell, who lies ill at Sydney.

News of her indisposition was communicated to the aviator, who has flown here from England in 13 days, breaking existing records. He seemed worried but was relieved by assurances that her condition was not serious and that she hoped to greet him at the landing field tomorrow.

Kingsford-Smith came here in an $50-mile flight today from Cloncurry, also in Queensland, where he stopped after departure Monday at dawn from Port Darwin, Northern Territory.

He will take off here at dawn tomorrow for Sydney, arriving in about five hours at the Mascot air-drome where a host of his admirers are expected to greet him. His fiancée, to whom he expects to be married the last week in November, has come here from Melbourne, her home, for the occasion.

At Cloncurry he was handed a telegram from King George to Lord Somers, acting governor-general of Australia, which said: "Please convey to Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith my heartiest congratulations on his wonderful flight." Lord Somers himself added: "Australia is proud to own you."

BAKER SEEKS ELECTION ON ONLY ONE PLANK

Brineland—(P)—James M. Baker has only one plank in his platform—good roads for northern Wisconsin—but he thinks it is enough to assure his election to the assembly on the Democrat ticket.

Baker is a candidate from Forest-Florence-Oneida counties and is making a strong campaign for election against S. J. Gwilt, Rhinelander, the Republican nominee. It is the first time in many years that a Democrat nominee from a northern Wisconsin district is waging a campaign with high hopes for victory.

Of the district's eight newspapers, only one had indicated any intention of supporting either of the candidates. A Minocqua newspaper has predicted Baker will carry the Minocqua section by a wide margin. The Rhinelander Daily News, only paper to support Gwilt in the primaries, has indicated no choice between Gwilt and Baker in the general election. The Grand Rapids Republican, edited by Herman Kronschmidt who was one of the defeated candidates for the candidates for the Republican nomination, declared it would support Assemblyman J. D. Grandine of Argonne if he ran as an Independent, but Grandine refused to make the race after losing out in the primaries.

Because of the large number of candidates in the primary election, Gwilt was a "minority nominee." Gwilt, a former member of the assembly, is a Progressive Republican and has the support of the Progressive faction in this district.

FUND DEMAND DROPS

"The typical business depression," he continued, "naturally brings with it a reduced demand on the part of manufacturers and merchants for currency and bank credit. They are curtailing rather than expanding their operations and if prices have fallen, the amount of money and credit required to conduct a given operation is less than before. Under these circumstances, interest rates, so far as they apply to loans considered safe by bankers and other lenders, naturally decline."

Such a reduction in interest rates, however, ultimately reacts favorably in encouraging borrowing, while at the same time low prices tend ultimately to bring about a revival of demand both on the part of consumers of finished products and of manufacturers and others who use raw materials."

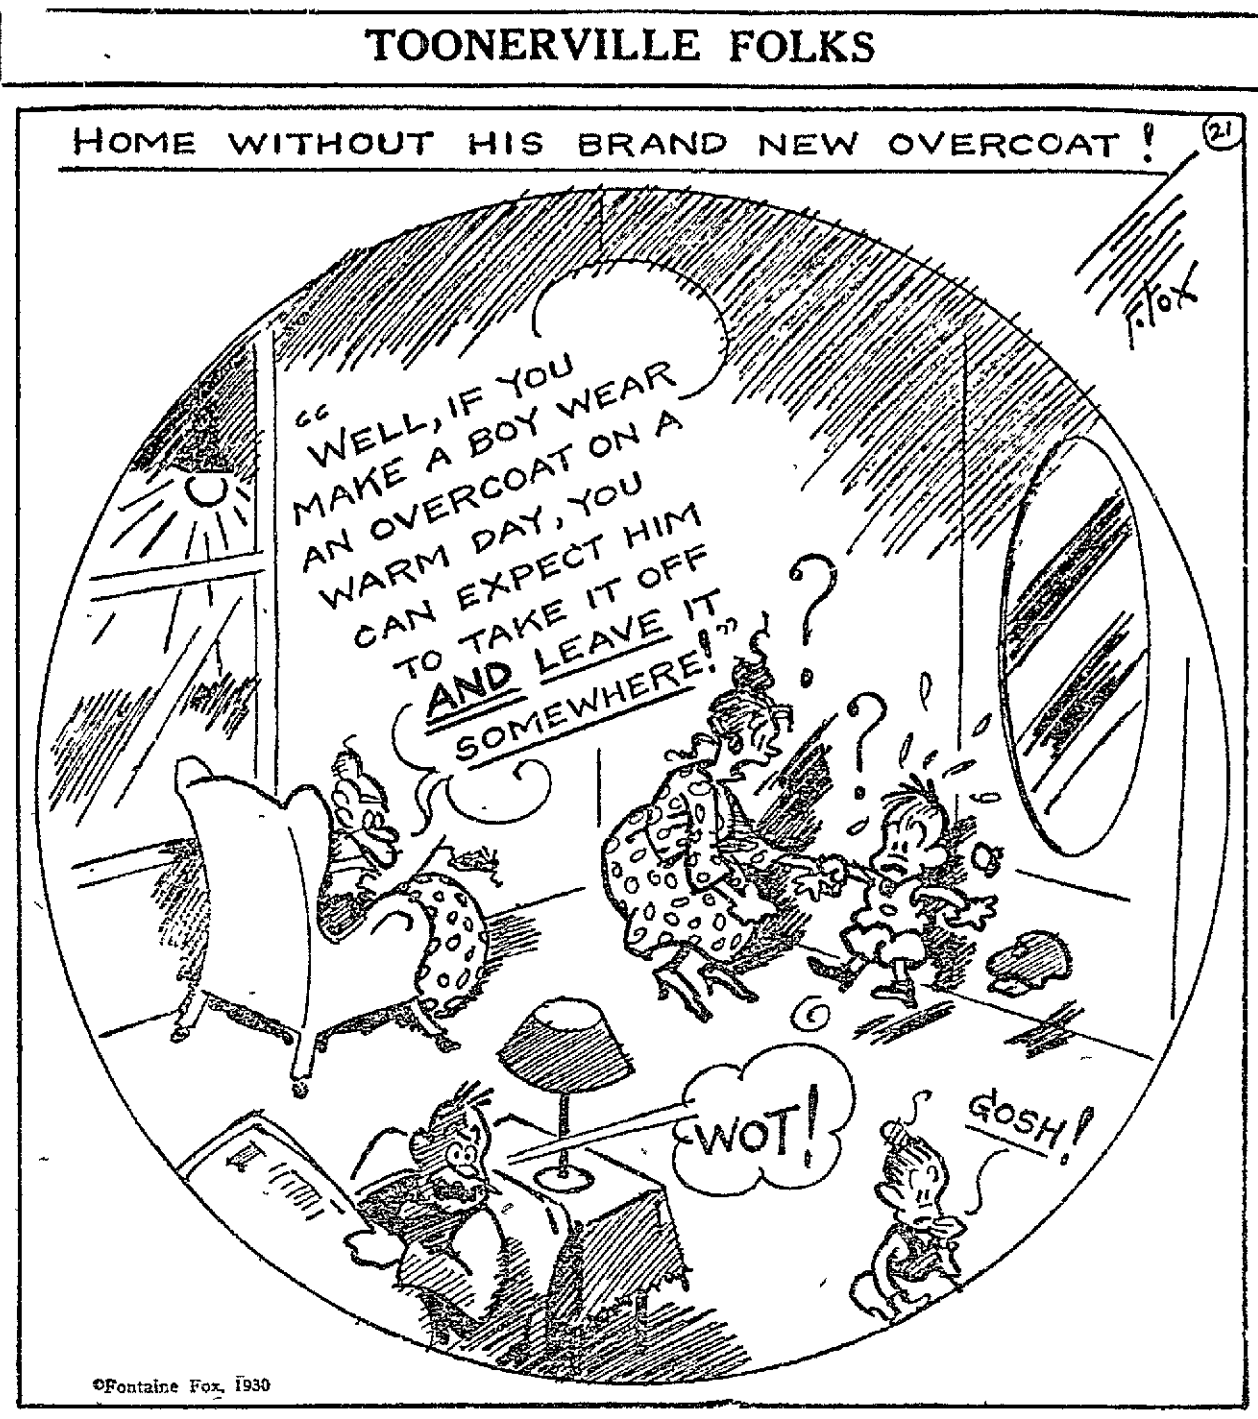

As Dr. Young outlines the situation, the ratio of gold reserve of the central banks of the United States and other countries to their liabilities is higher than it was a year ago. He adds that while the increase in the ratio of gold and other reserves to the amount of paper, credits and currency outstanding represents in a sense a strengthening of the position of the central banks, it does not indicate good business conditions. Such a position, he says, is brought about on the one hand by a lack of demand for currency and bank credits and on the other hand by a lack of confidence on the part of the banks in the ability of would-be borrowers to repay their loans.

Business therefore seems likely to have to work out its own salvation, without any spectacular assistance from the federal reserve system, no matter how anxious the members of that system may be to bring about a return of prosperity.

Londoner Giggles Where American Laughs In Movies

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—Where the American gasps, the Londoner giggles. The Londoner thinks an American under-world talkie is a perfectly ripping farce. This ought to kill the legend that Englishmen have no sense of humor, especially since they also laugh aloud during American movie love scenes because, it appears, Hollywood talks through its nose.

"Of course I'm not overlooking the fact," observed Sir Philip Bon Great, the Shakespearean actor, pausing here today before a tour of the country with his players, "that Cockneys drop their accents. Nor that American talkies are usually clever and beautifully photographed."

"But I don't think the talkie caused the recently rumored decline of the theatre. There have always been rumors of this impending decline. And if there were fewer plays on Broadway the past season, there were even fewer playhouses on Broadway the first time I saw it. Yet when people worry about miniature golf competing with the drama, I begin to think drama is at pretty low ebb."

BLAMES POOR PLAYS

"Any recent lack in the theatre is due to a lack of good plays, due in turn to the attempt of Anglo-Saxons to write the sort of plays in which only the French excel. The French can treat of disagreeable topics with a deft politeness not vouchsafed to us. Also, at present we regard the theatre as an amusement rather than as part of our lives. The Germans are so earnest that they even claim Shakespeare. 'You must be part German,' said a German to me, 'you understand Shakespeare so well.'"

"Modern plays," continued Sir Philip, "prove that Shakespeare lasts because he is real. There has been no second Shakespeare because the first wrote everything. His plots, for example, contain the underworld, bedrooms, adventure, and Americans. 'The Tempest' is supposedly Shakespeare's tribute to the new world, its natives the American natives. In 'Twelfth Night' you will find many surprisingly modern Americanisms; doubtless gleaned from returned travelers."

"There's almost nothing you can't find in Shakespeare, except pajamas, and since the up-to-date version had Lady Macbeth pouring herself a whiskey and soda, it wouldn't surprise me to see Desdemona in those."

Sir Philip added that Shakespeare was essentially a man's dramatist. "His young men are like the young men of today, fine fellows but often rather silly. Grownup babies. His women are usually so fine that the

VASSAR DEBATERS MEET GERMAN LADS

Subject Will Be on Woman's Emergence from Home—Girls Take Affirmative

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—(CPA)—The Vassar college debating team is working out this week for its mixed debating foursome with two German university lads Friday night. The debate will be on the question of woman's emergence from the home. The German boys, naturally, will take the "Kaiser, kinder and kuchen" end of the argument.

This will be the first of a series of about 30 debates in this country between representatives of American and European universities. A Scottish team will stage a radio debate with Bates college on thrift, the Scots maintaining that thrift is not a virtue. Other subjects will be the Young plan and "The Machine Age: Is it Progress?" On Oct. 22, the foreign indictment of American culture will be fought out in Chicago.

There are no women on the foreign teams, the visitors taking on women opponents here when they happen to draw a women's college for an adversary.

A Buenos Aires firm has presented to the government a proposal for the construction of a chain of more than 800 grain elevators. The cost would be $50,000,000.

ladies in the audience sometimes subconsciously resent them, but they are the type which men have always admired. In a Shakespearean audience, as in an audience at a classical concert, 60 per cent of those present are men."

It is an interesting sidelight, the fact that the actresses of Sir Philip's company do not wear makeup on the street. Not even lipstick. It is considered out of place.

A CORRECTION

Chicago—(P)—The Associated Press carried in its report yesterday an item that Edward Paulson died of burns inflicted by a hot iron applied by his wife to relieve a stomach pain. Dr. Luther M. Loran reported today, however, that Paulson himself applied the iron and died from a blood clot on his brain and not from burns from the iron.

ROTARY CLUB WILL SPONSOR POULTRY SHOW IN DECEMBER

Members Discuss Dates for Program and Hear Talk on Music

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Rotarians Monday discussed dates for the annual poultry show. No definite date has been announced, but it will be held the first of December. The speaker at the luncheon was Milton Stanley of Shawano, who discussed music. Mr. Stanley showed the increasing interest in music evinced by people and pointed out that, though once regarded as a woman's pleasure, it now has spread to the other sex and is no longer regarded as a "sissified" pastime. Citing Shawano as an example where a music census had been taken, he said over 1,900 of the city's 4,300 population could play some instrument. Mr. Stanley stated that small town bands are increasing since the war and are a direct result of the soldiers coming in contact with foreign music while overseas. Using the Badger section of the state as an example he showed that 124 bands were started in five counties during the past 12 years. Varied experiences of song writers in getting their songs across were related. He cited the experience of a young song writer, Dale Russell of Ogdensburg. The composer whistles away his spare time by composing music and songs and got his start when called upon to be master of ceremonies at a farewell party to a minister. Rather than talk he expressed himself in a song, "Good Bye, Good Luck, God Bless You." The song and others were sung by Mr. Stanley, accompanied by E. L. Reuter.

VALLEY OFFICIALS PROTEST LOWERING OF LEVEL IN LAKE

Plan Meeting at Kaukauna to Petition for Reestablish-ment of Old Line

Kaukauna—A protest will be voiced here at a meeting of about 20 city officials of the Fox River valley and representatives of the state board of health at Hotel Kaukauna Thursday evening, Oct. 30. The meeting has been called by Mayor B. W. Fargo to object against lowering of Lake Winnebago every spring before it has reached a certain level. Mayor Fargo believes that the opening of the gates at a low level each spring permits too much water to flow away. More water should be kept in the lake until late summer in order to flush the Fox river.

Several years ago a change was made so that the water in the lake was drained when the lake reached a level of about six inches lower than in former years. This was done by an organization representing a number of cities in the southern part of the state that had water draining into the lake each spring.

Since that time water in the Fox river was so low in summer that it could not be drained and a stenosis resulted. The river could not be flushed because the lake was at too low a level at this time of the year. An attempt will be made by those meeting here to have the former level of the lake reestablished before the sluice gates at Neenah are opened.

Invitations have been sent to the mayors in the valley cities to attend the meeting, which will start with a 9:30 dinner.

COUNTY FARMERS RUSH PLOWING, CLEAN UP FIELDS

Big Yields of Alfalfa and Red Clover Seed Reported as Rule

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour — Farmers of Outagamie-co are clearing up their sugar-beet fields, rushing their fall plowing, and neglecting their early cabbage fields altogether as a result of no market for cabbage or offers of $4 per ton for occasional loads. It is now quite usual to see a tractor and a team or two at work plowing in the same field. As far as threshing has been done, farmers have been getting big yields of a good quality of alfalfa and red clover seed. A few farmers are husking the surplus corn in the fields or drawing it to the crib.

The most successful alfalfa seed raiser in the county is Walter E. farms. A few days ago, the writer reported that Wieckert threshed 32 bushels of the highest grade alfalfa seed from eight acres. Since that report went out Wieckert has threshed 20 bushels more, the latter the product of about 10 acres. Even that addition does not tell the entire alfalfa story nor will it be told at the present time. It is sufficient to say here that Wieckert harvested 35 loads of excellent alfalfa hay on his 3 acre field last summer. And let the second crop go to seed. By raising his own alfalfa seed the past few years and fertilizing his fields with barnyard manure, he has made alfalfa a crop as reliable as marsh grass in a swamp.

Edward DeBruin, town of Oneida, threshed 12 acres of red clover, recently, and got 52 bushels of seed of the best quality raised in this section of the state. The threshers came to do their work when Mr. De Bruin had to live to serve on the jury. Before leaving, he left six bags with the threshers for holding the seed. When the six bags were filled Mrs. De Bruin hunted up six more bags. When Mr. De Bruin came back home in the afternoon he was compelled to hunt up the balance of the bags required by his big, unexpected yield. He has already marketed 3,100 pounds of his seed.

BALANCE IN FIELD
William Van Handel, town of Osborn, recently threshed 3 small loads of red clover and got 5 bushels of seed. He has 3 acres of early cabbage from which he sold 6 tons at $14 per ton. The balance of the crop is in the field waiting for a market and higher prices than now prevail.

Arnold Munster, town of Osborn, has lately finished the construction of a hog and hen house, 15 by 50 feet, on the site of an old cement block building destroyed by a cyclone on May 1. Throughout last summer and this fall, Mr. Munster pastured 32 hogs on three quarters of an acre of rape. The south half of the rape patch is still in very good condition. Beside the rape the hogs got whey in which some ground feed was mixed. In winter he expects to grind red clover hay and use it as a substitute for the rape pasture. He finishes his hogs on corn. Mr. Munster claims that his method is the best he has ever tried in the rearing of pigs. Next spring he will have a fresh crop of rape in his hog lot. He says that without pasture in his hog lot, clover hay for winter, and whey throughout the year, he could not feed and raise pigs economically. He marketed 13 hogs a short time ago, and is now finishing 15 more. His spring seedling of red and alsike clover is picking up very rapidly as a result of the recent rains. He raised 22 acres of very good corn. He expects to start Friday, plowing 40 acres, and to make short work of the job. A nice crop of cabbage in a small field on his farm is waiting for a better market.

Louis Arndt, town of Osborn, recently threshed 12 bushels of red

CIRCULAR FLOUNCE AT TOP OF SKIRT

It's More Than Hip Length and It's Deeply Notched in Front

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York—At the top of the skirt of her velvet suit, the Parisienne is putting a wide, circular flounce effect. It is more than hip-length and deeply notched in front. This is to match the circular, notched flare of her hip-length jacket; beneath which the skirt flounce shows, making two flares grow were but one grew before.

London likes fur so well that her cloth coats are positively fuzzy with it. She has two bands of fur around a military collar, one band around that shoulder cape which she intensely likes, and two more bands—big "uns—around each cuff.

Pssst! Look! Low belt-lines. No fooling, you can get them on satin and crepe street and afternoon dresses at some of the swankiest Fifth-ave stores and no questions asked. By low, one means low. 'Way below the normal waistline; oh, by four good inches. It's among the first indications that, once more, what goes up must come down.

clover seed, and dug 40 bushels of potatoes. He is now milking 25 cows that are on wild and clover pasture. In winter Mr. Arndt feeds red clover hay. His spring seedlings of red clover is growing rapidly since the rains set in, and his pastures have the appearance of spring pastures. He has 15 acres of fall plowing to do. Mrs. Arndt raised 30 large geese during the past summer and will soon begin to fit her flock for the market.

Gilbert Bastian, town of Osborn, recently threshed 31 bushels of red clover seed. He expects to try raising alfalfa for hay next summer and sweet clover for pasture. He has 43 acres of early cabbage for which he can get only $4.00 per ton. For 23 acres of cabbage raised last year, Bastian got a total of $500. As cabbage is a short crop over the country, he fails to understand the present low prices.

FERTILIZATION OF PASTURE SUGGESTED BY RECENT DROUGHT

Practice, Almost Unknown in This Country, Encouraged by Dry Spell

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)
New York —(AP)—Pasture fertilization, a familiar practice in Europe, but practically unknown to American farmers, has been encouraged by the drought to make its debut in the great hay and pasture belt where short rations threaten 12,000,000 dairy cows.

Eventual use of 1,000,000 tons of pasture fertilizer annually in the dairy region is predicted by J. B. Abbott, agronomist of the National Fertilizer association and himself a farmer of Bellows Falls, Vt.

His prediction was made in an address prepared for a conference in New York October 16, between the association and the farm press of the nation.

Other farmers also left their furrows to bring to Broadway an account of personal pasture demonstrations and acquaint farm editors with the economic side of the movement.

There is more to it, they say, than merely sowing fertilizer and milking the dollars out of the cow. Proper management of fertilized grazing land is about as technical and complicated as production of any arable crop.

Cornell university has found that the average feed cost per cow day for the six summer months is about 10 cents, whereas the cost during six winter months is about 35 cents a day.

The conclusion is drawn that in so far as fertilization can make pastures take the place of manure feeding it is profitable—probably to the extent of 20 cents per cow day.

In addition to big savings in feed costs, it is pointed out, healthier and better pastures would go far to maintain the milk flow, which at times during the drought became seriously impaired.

In some instances the supply in several large cities was threatened, resulting in price advances to the consumer.

Fertilized land, Abbott says, yields good grazing one to two weeks earlier and during that time is of maximum value because of complete replacement of expensive manure feeding.

With a top dressing of nitrogen after the first grazing, it will recover within four to five weeks and become available for grazing again just as pastures begin to get short, thus prolonging the June flush at the latter end.

Too, fertilization to withstand drought and heavy grazing is most needed in the case of dairy herds, since they must be kept within a working radius of the barns, which in itself represents a heavy drain on the resources of a pasture.

"In many sections, particularly in the east," Abbott says, "we have reached the stage where more cows than the grass will maintain are kept, and so much manger feeding is necessary that in many cases dairy farming is unprofitable because of high production costs.

"We believe farmers in the hay and pasture belt, lying north and east of the corn belt, could use nearly 1,000,000 tons of fertilizer annually on pastures now and make a larger average profit on it than on the small amount of fertilizer they use on corn and other cultivated crops."

Men Are Now At Work On New Telephone Buildings

The extensive 1930 building program of the Wisconsin Telephone Company is an evidence of the Company's faith in Wisconsin's future.

Several large building projects have recently been completed. In addition, two new buildings are being erected in Milwaukee, the Sheridan and Mitchell dial central offices; and additions are under way or planned for the near future at Appleton, Eau Claire, Madison, Oshkosh and Stevens Point. Many men are employed in the construction of these projects—insuring a livelihood for hundreds of families.

The Wisconsin Telephone Company's building program exemplifies its faith in the business outlook for Wisconsin for the immediate future—and the company is proving its faith by expending almost $14,000,000 this year for extensions, betterments and replacements to plant and equipment.

The Dancing Silhouette

BY NATALIE SUMNER LINCOLN

SYNOPSIS: When Dr. Paul Kane, surgeon, is murdered by carbon monoxide gas poisoning, Jack Winslow, adopted son of Arnold Winslow, is suspected as the murderer and charged with the crime. Elsa Chase, beautiful girl, whom Jack loves, is suspected of being an adventuress by the elder Winslow. He brought Kane to examine her real condition and hired G. Thorne, detective, to probe her past, but Thorne is now working on Kane's murder. Mrs. Lawrence, a mysterious woman, dies suddenly without revealing the secret hold which she has over Elsa. Chase Thorne finds in her room part of a bill from a Chicago sanitarium for care, and a clipping with the words, "The Dancing Silhouette." A mysterious shadow of a human being, madly dancing, has been seen twice at the Winslow mansion, but its source is still undiscovered. Thorne, late one night, climbs a tree beside the house, hoping to enter, through a window, an attic room of which the door is locked, and where he hopes to find some clue to the murder mystery. As he prepares to swing from the tree to the third floor window sill, a light flashes on in the room and the mysterious dancing shadow again appears silhouetted against the drawn window shade.

Chapter 25
IN PURSUIT OF A SHADOW
WITH his blood on fire, Thorne lowered himself until he hung from the branch by his hands. Swinging back and forth he gathered momentum and releasing his grip shot downward toward the dormer window.

In his decent his groping, grasping fingers tore at the wall, then at the stone ledges--slipped--and grasped the copper gutter. With his heart racing against his ribs he hung suspended, too weak to pull himself upward. Getting his second wind he dragged his body up, up, up, and lay sprawling half on, half off, the window ledge, just as the light in the room went out.

For several minutes Thorne lay where he was, too spent for further exertion, but his brain was on fire. Had the person in the room seen him as he shot by the window? No, by heaven, that mad whirlwind dancer could never have detected him. And yet--and yet--the light had gone out.

Slowly, cautiously, he drew himself up on the ledge and crouched against the window, leaning his weight against it to keep his balance. The window, like all in the house, opened outward and was in two sections, resembling small, glass paneled doors. Thorne's hand felt along his belt of tools and he drew out a piece of paste paper.

Sticking it over the pane opposite the window catch, he next took out his glass cutter. Using it with care, he cut an opening large enough for him to insert his hand, and without noise he moved the paper and the glass clinging to it. Thrusting his fingers through the hole he took the fraction of a second to unfasten that side of the window. Revolver in hand he slipped over the sill and into the room, shutting the window behind him.

Only by a turn in the carpet strip, could he tell that he had reached the main hallway. There he paused, perplexed, for it also was in darkness, contrary to the custom of the house. Judging from the remarks of the Winslows had let fall during one of their conversations as to his wife's terror of darkness and fire and their habit of keeping the halls lighted throughout the night. His bedroom lay, as he remembered it, to the left and he faced in that direction just as a sound to the right reached him and he swung about.

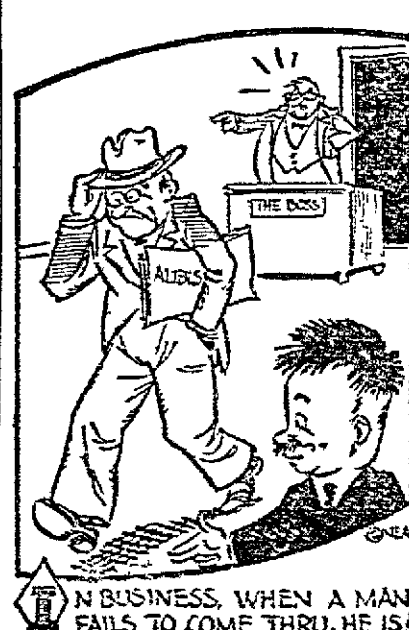

Thorne grew rigid. Was the person not fire from him, approaching or going in the opposite direction? One minute, two minutes passed, then Thorne took the initiative and advanced along the hall, his "creepers" making no sound. Something loomed out of the darkness ahead and his out-flung arms closed about a woman's form. His hand across her mouth muffled her terrified scream to a gurgle, and half lifting, half dragging her along, he entered the open door of a vacant bedroom and switched on the light as she dropped to the floor at his feet.

(Copyright, D. Appleton and Co.)

Who is the woman Thorne has captured? Tomorrow's chapter reveals her identity.

MANY ISSUES FOR VOTERS IN OHIO ELECTION

Dry Laws Battle and Prosperity Two Outstanding Problems in Campaigns

Columbus, Ohio — (AP)—An overabundance of issues, led by the wet and dry question and simmering down to prosperity, the tariff and other problems, has marked the present hot political campaign in Ohio. Never before in the history of the state have the Buckeye electors been called upon to face such a scrambled political situation, with both the Republicans and the Democrats involved within their own ranks on the prohibition issue.

The major fight was a clean cut wet and dry battle, with United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican incumbent, who seeks to retain his seat, espousing the dry cause; His opponent, Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, of Cleveland, campaigned on a repeal of the eighteenth amendment platform.

McCulloch is an attorney and a former Ohio congressman. Bulkley, for the most part, centered his oratory on the tariff, claiming that the new tariff law would reflect great benefits to the public as time rolled on. He charged that his Democratic opponent, while advocating repeal, had advanced no sound substitute for prohibition. Bulkley waged his fight on his repeal stand, claiming that present conditions were intolerable. Bulkley stressed the fact that his stand against the dry laws was personal, and was not to be considered as representing the entire state Democratic ticket.

GOVERNOR FOR DRY LAWS

Gov. Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican, seeking reelection, is a supporter of the dry laws. Both he and McCulloch appealed to the voters to cast their ballots as an endorsement of the national and state Republican administrations. George White, Marietta banker, Democrat, who opposes Cooper, also is known as a dry law advocate. He centered his attack on the Cooper administration, claiming it was one of the most extravagant in the history of Ohio. White is a former Ohio congressman and was chairman of the Democratic national committee in 1920.

With both the Republican candidates pledged outright to support prohibition, the wet faction within the party was not inactive. The Cuyahoga-co (Cleveland) Republican organization, headed by National Committeeman Maurice Maschke, was on record as favoring modification.

Both parties, in state conventions, adopted law enforcement planks, neither mentioning prohibition. The Republican plank favored strict enforcement of all laws. The Democrats, while favoring enforcement of all laws without fear or favor, spoke of the right of any person to work for repeal of any law.

And so, the wet and dry issue in Ohio summed up in this manner: Both leading Republican candidates dry, but a faction within the party ranks wet.

The Democratic senatorial candidate wet, the gubernatorial candidate dry.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS PRESENT

The campaign brought many leading public figures into Ohio, including President Hoover and Vice President Curtis. It brought several leading Democratic figures out of retirement, including former Gov. James M. Cox of Dayton, the Democratic presidential candidate against Harding, and former Gov. Vic Donahey. Cox threw a wet bombshell as the campaign opened when during a Democratic victory dinner in Columbus he advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment, claiming that only in this way would the country solve the question of racketeering, gang murders and general lawlessness.

Claiming that every pre-election pledge had been kept, the Republican orators asked for votes of endorsement for Hoover and Cooper. The Democrats charged the Hoover for present economic conditions, and claimed that while the Cooper administration had been extravagant, it had failed, until after the tragic Easter night penitentiary fire in which 320 convicts were killed, to do anything to remedy overcrowded conditions in state institutions.

Other candidates on the state ticket followed the leaders throughout the campaign, stressing the issues put forth by the party captains.

In addition to a senator, governor

Head Surgeons

They're new officers of the American College of Surgeons, and were chosen the other day at the thirteenth annual convention, held in Philadelphia. President-elect is Dr. C. J. Miller, top, of New Orleans, La.; professor of gynecology at Tulane University. Dr. Frederick A. Belsey, below, of Waukegan, Ill., was chosen treasurer of the organization.

and complete state ticket, voters of Ohio were to name 22 congressmen and an entire state legislature on Nov. 4. Many of the congressional contests were being fought on the wet and dry issue. Of the 44 candidates in this field, six Republicans and ten Democrats were listed. As the oratory came thick and fast from both sides during the month preceding the election, voters likewise came thick and fast to the registration booths. And when the final registration day closed, it was found that Ohio electors, almost to the great numbers who voted in the Smith-Hoover election, had signified their intention of participating in the Nov. 4 battle of ballots.

Marshfield — (AP)—A split appeared likely today among livestock shippers as an obstacle to prevent their union with the Wisconsin Livestock Shippers' federation, meeting here for its initial convention.

Forty shippers from a dozen counties attended yesterday's session. Several delegates voiced opposition to the federation because of a federation ruling that the majority stock shipper in any carload lot handled through an association shall have the right to designate the terminal agency.

ATTEMPTS SEEN TO REVIVE MERGER OF EAST RAILROADS

Harvard Professor Believes to Be Working Again on "Four Party Plan"

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE Copyright 1930, By Cons. Press. Wall Street, New York — (CPA)—

There have been intimations recently that the so-called "four party plan," designated to consolidate railroads in the eastern trunk line territory, might be revived and that there is better prospect now for coordinating the ideas of the different manager-ents than at any time since this proposal was abandoned.

It originated in 1924, and after many months of conferences between the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and the Nickel Plate interests, it was rejected. Concessions that were necessary in one direction in order to bring about the proposed mergers, were refused, and eventually the situation was complicated by the proposal for a fifth system of which the Wabash railroad was to be the keystone.

It is understood that six months ago Professor Ripley of Harvard, the author of the proposed tentative consolidation plan, promulgated by the interstate commerce commission, made a strong effort to bring the conflicting eastern railroad interests together, and that he nearly succeeded.

TALKS WITH HOOVER

The fact that Professor Ripley discussed the railroad outlook with President Hoover last Friday is taken to mean that he is again active in the matter of establishing a better relationship between the eastern lines and feels that the change in conditions that have been brought about by the slump in business and in railroad securities may make it easier to effect the original four party plan than when business was booming and securities were rising during 1928 and 1929.

Some of the developments that have occurred in recent months also lend weight to the suggestion that conditions are ripe for taking up the eastern consolidation movement at the point where it was dropped several years ago. For one thing it is felt that, although the interstate commerce commission's merger plan of last December provided for a fifth system, this has since been rendered less probable by the new alignment between the old Gould roads west of the Mississippi river and the Van Sweringen's.

There are also certain conditions that have arisen in the affairs of some of the other roads allocated to the Wabash that not make for the same sort of extension of this system as was originally proposed. Among them are the purchase of the controlling interest of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia by the Pennsylvania and the serious decline that has occurred in the securities of the Seaboard Air Line.

OTHER CHANGES, TOO

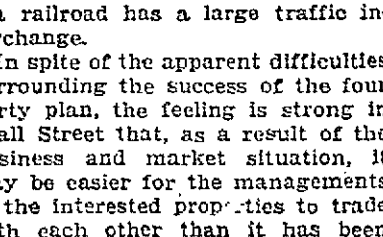

Another change in recent months has to do with the ownership of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western which has been allocated to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate system. It is believed that New York Central now has a working control of the Lackawanna. Along with this is the steady progress which the Baltimore and Ohio has made in coordinating its system through purchase of a majority interest in Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Susquehanna and Chicago and Alton and an increase in its holdings of Reading stock to a degree where it now has a substantial majority over that owned by the New York Central.

The position of the Pennsylvania railroad has so far remained unchanged with respect to its ownership of Wabash and Lehigh valley stock with the intimation that the company will resist all effort to separate it from these holdings and will appeal any order to that end to the United States supreme court. While the Baltimore and Ohio has been increasing its influence over properties in its territory the Pennsylvania has also been securing strategic advantages, either directly or through the investment of the Pennroad company in the stocks of carriers with which the Pennsylvania railroad has a large traffic interchange.

In spite of the apparent difficulties surrounding the success of the four party plan, the feeling is strong in Wall Street that, as a result of the business and market situation, it may be easier for the managers of the interested properties to trade with each other than it has been heretofore.

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. After that I had to lie down often. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little school-girls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. WALL PAPER MAKES CLUB WOMEN DIZZY, MEMBER COMPLAINS

Milwaukee — (AP)—Members of the Milwaukee Woman's club are "dizzy" over the new wall paper in their clubrooms at a hotel here, and have asked the management to "do something."

Mrs. Alex Mauer protested yesterday. "We can't stand it," she said. "Women complained at the last meeting that it makes them dizzy. It's bad enough to 'see red' when you are worked up about some situation that needs remedying, but actually seeing red all the time isn't conducive to a nice frame of mind."

The paper in question, of a modernistic trend, has a large block design of blue grapes, green pears, white tumbler goblets and vases, and other objects in reds, blacks and yellows.

Mrs. Bauer's anti-dizziness note drew the fire of Mrs. N. O. Slater, who launched last week's "rebellion" against the General Federal of Women's clubs. Mrs. Slater said Mrs. Bauer's trouble was a lack of appreciation for modernistic art. "I find that paper in keeping with the modern spirit of this group. I'm afraid you're mid-Victorian."

ASSESSED VALUATIONS HIGH IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee — (AP)—Assessed valuations speaking louder than population, Wisconsin must consider itself. Take, for example, Milwaukee. Thirtieth on the list in population, this city has a total assessed valuation greater than that of San Francisco and almost equalling Pittsburgh and St. Louis—all larger. The figure was $1,012,520,000.

Department of Commerce figures note another exception, Madison, is only half as large as Peoria, Ill., yet its valuation is $149,795,000 compared to $92,945,000 for Peoria.

Racine, again, is far down on the list of cities in the 100,000 population class. The valuation there is more than Peoria's—$120,451,000. Other valuations include, Kenosha, $76,901,000; Oshkosh, $64,841,000; Superior, $62,389,000.

Badger Briefs

West de Pere — (AP)—St. Norbert's college radio, WIIBY, was officially on the air today after dedication. It maintains studios here and at Green Bay.

Racine — (AP)—John F. Bickel, Racine business man, father of Frederick March, motion picture actor, yesterday was involved in an automobile accident in which Mrs. Mary Roberts, 46, was injured. Bickel was unhurt.

Antigo — (AP)—Because he failed to halt his automobile at a stop sign, Davis Duquaine, Green Bay, was held in jail today on charges of violating the prohibition laws. A motorcycle policeman caught Duquaine for the traffic violation and then said he discovered 20 gallons of alcohol in the car.

Escanaba, Mich. — (AP)—Trampled and gored by a bull, Gustav Englebreten, 65, Thompson farmer, was dead at his home today. The bull was chased away by a dog as it attacked Englebreten's brother.

Beloit — (AP)—J. C. Teague, secretary-treasurer of the Yates-American Machine company, today was reported in a critical condition in a hospital here as the result of an automobile accident. His automobile collided with another driven by Dr. Arthur Connell, Rockford, Ill. Teague suffered two broken neck vertebrae and chest injuries.

Kenosha — (AP)—Police today were on the lookout for sneak thieves reported by Thomas J. Dale to have taken 15 rings valued at $3,000 from his jewelry store here.

Financial And Market News

STOCKS ONSLAUGHT KNOCKS STOCK MART DOWN AFTER RALLY

Selling Not in Large Volume but Lists Show Little Resistance

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—The stock market ended its head up at the beginning of the week only to be knocked down again by a fresh onslaught of selling today.

The selling was not in large volume, but the lists showed little resistance until it had been depressed to the low levels of last week.
Yesterday's rally had been so swift to bring out further liquidation for better prices and had been too obviously the result of short covering to be convincing.

Westinghouse was a soft spot, dropping 8 points to a new low for the year, close to the minimum reached last November. Allied chemical lost more of yesterday's point advance, International Harvester reacted nearly as much, reaching a new low since the 1928 split-off. Shares losing 4 or more points included American Can, Eastman Kodak, Safeway, Evers, Western Union, while U. S. Steel, American Telephone and a long list of other issues declined two or three points. Oils and coppers broke to new lows.

The drop in Westinghouse was directly attributed to publication of a 3rd quarter earnings statement, showing net for the quarter of $1.12 share, compared to the quarterly requirement of $1.25. Although better earnings earlier in the year indicate that the year's dividend will be earned, and payment of the regular rate is regarded as assured, the statement was clearly disappointing.

Traders were anxious to see what the statement would develop around the recent low levels before making active buyers. Although the feeling is growing that the depression must now be rather thoroughly completed in many stock investments appear to prefer waiting a definite cyclical turn, buying at higher levels, as the price of avoiding the possible unpleasantness of seeing their shares sell below the figures ad. Some observers point out that efficiency of the high grade issues usually comes at the end of a bear market, just as they are usually the last to turn downward, at the end of a bull movement.

The day's news was not wholly favorable, however. The gradual improvement in the cotton mill situation was reported as having proceeded in the past week.

The head of International Business Machines said that his company was enjoying its best year. A few earnings statements for the third quarter were regarded as favorable.
Nashua and Ohio reported net losses for the year. Nickel lost, however, earned only $1.31 a share on the 6 per cent preferred against $6.96 a share on the common in the September quarter last year.

The weekly condition statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was pointing to a further drop in loans against securities. A drop of $10,000,000 compared with a drop of $15,000,000 in brokers loans during the same period and a drop of $25,000,000 in bank loans against securities in the previous week. It was regarded as reassuring, however, that most of the remaining increase in bank loans against securities, over the figures of a year ago, is in New York, where the banks have a great surplus of loans. Barring further drastic declines in share prices, any need of reducing these loans is not the momentary problem.

The money market was a little easier, but the demand was negligible. Call money held officially at 2 per cent, while some maturities of money were reduced 3 of one per cent.

SET SKIDS TO HOG MART; PRICES SAG

Shippers Have Many Orders to Fill but Run is Excessive

Chicago—(AP)—The skids were under the hog market at the outset today and in the hope of buying at prices 25c or more lower than the close of yesterday all purchasers were slow to take hold the market.
Shippers had plenty of orders to be filled, but the run was so excessive that there was no hurry about buying. A state contingency of 10,000 head put a terrific handicap on the fresh supply of 23,000, and sales of 180 to 210 lbs weights of choice quality ranged from $9.35 to $9.50, and the early top was around $9.65, paid for 250 lb. butchers.

Native steers and cows, of plain to medium quality, were the principal offering in the cattle market, and they were in slow demand in the early morning trade. Common cows at less than $4.00 and steel selling around $9.00 sold first, along with a sprinkling of choice light yearling steers and heifers. These latter were sold at $12.00 to $12.50, in line with the best yesterday. The run of cattle at 9,000, was the same as last Tuesday's and at the eleven markets there were only 44,000, against 46,800 a week ago.

Lambs held the strong position they established yesterday. The best were offered at $9.00 to $9.35 and "raw good demand. Receipts for the first two days of this week stand 50 per cent smaller than for the same last week.

BEARISH EFFECTS ON WALL STREET HAMPER CORN, WHEAT MARKET

Advances in Prices Wiped Out—Traders Anxious to Gather Profits

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago—(AP)—Under a handicap owing to bearish effects of stock market declines, wheat prices reacted late today from gains scored earlier. Advances in corn and oats were also more than wiped out.
Most of the selling of cereals appeared to be in the nature of profit-taking on the part of recent buyers, wheat at the top today showing about 5 1/2 a bushel rise from recent low figures.

Upturns today of Chicago prices carried wheat to the highest point reached in the last ten days. Winnipeg reports that overnight export business there amounted to 1,250,000 bushels but helped to strengthen the market here. Meanwhile, considerable interest was shown, too, in assertions that shipping prices on Russian wheat at Liverpool had been increased as much as 18c a bushel, and that chartered for late Russian shipments had stopped.

Ready absorption of future delivery offerings of wheat in Chicago kept the market pointing steadily upward much of the time after the initial advance. Corn and oats prices sympathized with wheat strength, the feed grains responding also to persistent unfavorable husking returns. Some Illinois reports said corn was yielding about 5 bu an acre less than farmers generally had expected.

Provisions mounted with cereals, despite a notable setback in hog values.

OPERATOR OF RADIO STATION IS UNDER FIRE

Accused of Threatening to "Break" Newspaper and Attacking Doctors

Washington—(AP)—Norman Baker, operator of Station KINT at Muscatine, Iowa, testified before the federal Radio commission today that he did not recall broadcasting a statement that one of the purposes of the People's Protective association which he formed was to "break the Muscatine Journal."

He made the statement in reply to questions by Benjamin S. Fisher, commission counsel, at a further hearing to determine whether Baker's station will be permitted to continue operating after Nov. 1.

The Muscatine Journal was one of three Iowa newspapers charged by Baker yesterday as being in a "conspiracy" to close his station.

The People's Protective association he explained as one of many enterprises he initiated and which he advertised over KINT. He organized the association, he said, to combat anything unfair to the public.

"I use KINT to boost every enterprise in which I am engaged," he said, adding he used direct and indirect advertising for the Baker Cancer institute and the sale of gasoline and tires.

He said he also was one of the incorporators of the Progressive Publishing company which will begin publishing a newspaper in Muscatine next month.

ASKED FINANCIAL BACKING Under questioning Baker said he had urged people to subscribe to stock in the publishing company and in so doing told people over the radio that he had "never lost an investment in my life". He said the company was incorporated for $150,000.

Counsel Fisher took Baker to task for his statement that he had never lost an investment and asked him if he had not lost money in the stock market crash in October and November of 1929. Baker replied that at the time of the crash he had invested in stocks worth $210,000 and that although he was pressed to protect his margin, he held the stocks and later
"milked the market." He said some of his investments were in the Radio Corporation of America, and that he still had stock in that company.

At the outset of today's hearing
W. D. Randall, Muscatine, attorney for Baker, charged that Commissioner Counsel Fisher had attempted to censor programs of the radio station and a heated argument ensued until Examiner Ellis A. Yost ruled that Fisher had a right to question Baker relative to all matters put on the air by Station KINT.

ATTACKED DOCTORS, CLAIM Fisher charged that Baker had made scurrilous attacks upon physicians prominent in Muscatine, Iowa, over Station KINT.

He read excerpts from radio talks alleged to have been made by Baker attacking vaccinations of persons for smallpox and in which Baker was quoted as assailing the so-called "medical trust."

Baker also said he had urged people to contribute to the People's Protective association and that many contributions had been received.

In advertising Baker institute over the radio, Baker said he told of his work in curing cancer, gallstones, stomach ulcers, goiter and other organic ailments without operations.

EASIER TONE NOTED ON N. Y. CURB MARKET

Small Extensions of Monday Rally Followed by Increase in Sales

New York—(AP)—Small extensions of the Monday rally were followed by retailing sales on the curb today. The list absorbed the profit-taking rather diffidently and the easier tone to the list was utilized for the placing of some additional short lines.

Recessions ruled small however,
and trading became dull on the dip.
Active shares lost a couple of points at the bottom, and backed and filled with considerable irregularity, although the trend was mostly downward.

Electric Bond and Share offered resistance around 52, where it was off more than a point. Brazilian Traction, American and Foreign Power warrants and United Light "A" were equally heavy. American Gas and Electric bobbed up and down errati-cally, showing an extreme loss of more than 3 points, tempered by occasional intervals of firmness.

Oil dropped. Vacuum got below 60 for the first time this year, but reflected from the low. Gulf was also heavy and made a new 1930 minimum. Cities Service and Humble eased, but the standards were firm.

Investments trusts reacted, but trading was quiet. Call money remained at 2 1/2 per cent.

27 PER CENT OF BADGER STUDENTS WORK PART TIME

Lawrence Scholars, Both Men and Women, Included in List

BY RUBY A. BLACK.
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Twenty-seven per cent of the students enrolled in nine Wisconsin colleges in 1927-28 earned more than $100.00 to help pay their way through school, according to a report compiled by Walter J. Greenleaf, Associate Specialist in Higher Education of the United States Bureau of Education.

Thirty per cent of all those who worked during school terms earned their entire living for that period.

According to the report, which is a survey of the possibilities of financial help for college students and universities, 192,418 men and 39,856 women students earned $32,500,000 during 1927-28. The average earnings for women were $149 and for men, $169.

The University of Wisconsin led the nine Badger State institutions listed, in earning power, with 2,133 men out of 5,972 enrolled, and 712 women out of 3,680, working and earning $213,800 in the year. Of these workers, 760 men and 250 women earned their entire living. Eight with 200 men out of 448 earning $84,000. Ten of these engineering students entirely supported themselves.

Little Milton college in Milton, Wis., was a surprisingly close third, considering that it could boast of only 90 men and 84 women students. Of this small registration, 22 men and 18 women worked and earned $45,000. Nine of the men and four women supported themselves without any outside aid.

Other Wisconsin colleges listed, in the order of their earnings, follow: Lawrence college of Appleton; 75 men out of 271, earning $23,800. Ten men and five women supported themselves entirely.

Marquette University at Milwaukee; 238 men out of 2,389, and 75 women out of 497, earning $23,800. Of these workers, 191 men supported themselves, without aid.

Northland college at Ashland, 80 men out of 100, and 48 women out of 80, earning $20,000. Twenty-five men and 19 women earned their entire living during 1927-28.

Carroll college at Wausau; 125 men out of 250, and 22 women out of 150, earning $13,500.

Beloit college, 100 men out of 290, and 30 women out of 246, earning $11,000. Of this total, 18 men and four women were able to support themselves entirely.

Milwaukee-Dowder college; 56 women out of 418, earning $11,390.

At St. Mary's college in Prairie du Chien, only four out of 155 women registered worked during the school term. Financial figures are not available. Figures are not given for Ripon.

It is plain from these figures that the average earnings, as stated in the bulletin, really mean little, as many students earn more than a thousand dollars while others make barely one hundred. As far as actual earnings power, Little Milton college with its busy 38 far outstripped the rest of the Badger colleges, bringing in more than a thousand apiece. Workers at the University of Wisconsin averaged $75, while Lawrence college students averaged $280.

NEW KONJOLA PUTS END TO RHEUMATISM

Former Sufferer Tells How Totally Different Medicine Ended His Ills

MR. CRISS ABERSOLL

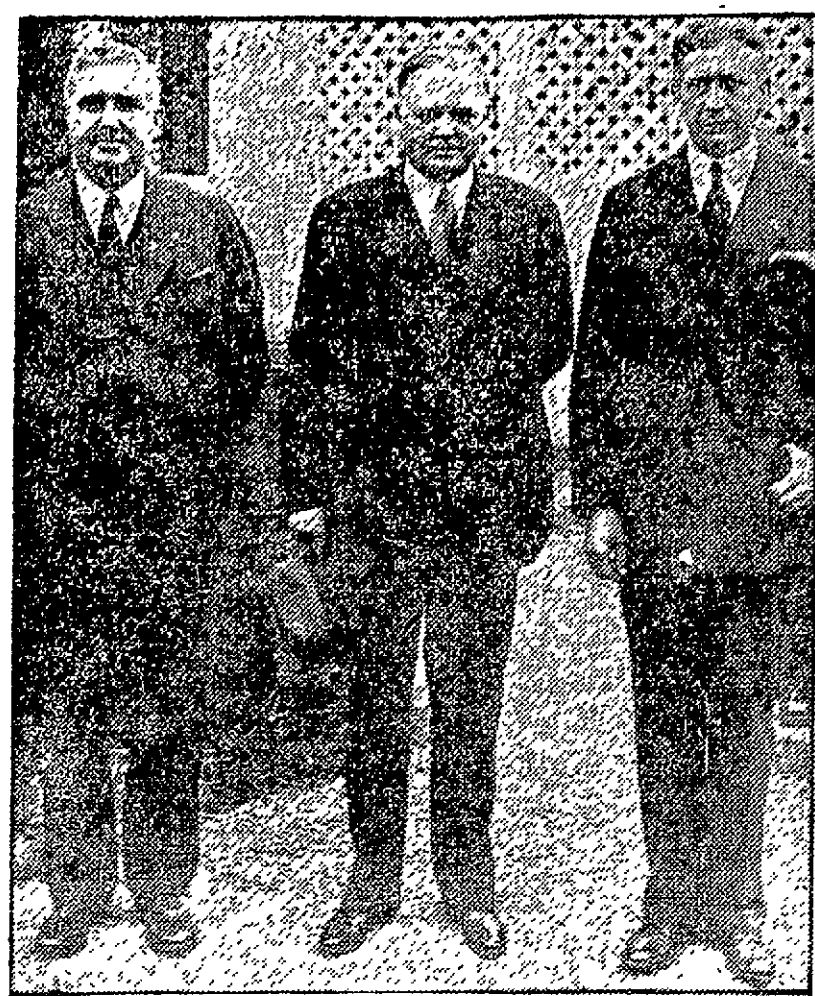

Four bottles of Konjola have practically removed every trace of rheumatism from which I suffered for four years," said Mr. Criss Abersoll, 565 North Congress Street, Aberdeen, S. Dak. "My knees and ankles were affected and the pains were almost unbearable. When the day's work was finished I was completely worn out. Not a medicine did me any good until I took Konjola."

"Improvement began with the second bottle and I could walk upstairs without effort. I eat better and sleep better. My bowels are regulated and that tired feeling is gone. I am glad to recommend this splendid medicine."

So it goes, victory after victory when Konjola is given a chance. A complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended to obtain the best results.

Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

PRIM APPROVES PROPOSED STATE DETECTIVE PLAN

Chief Believes Smaller, Rural Communities Would Benefit by System

Police Chief George T. Prim approves establishment of a state detective bureau, as suggested by the Wisconsin Police Chiefs' association at its recent meeting in Milwaukee.

The chief, however, gave his endorsement to the proposal, with the reservation that such a bureau must be kept out of politics. To make it a political football, he said, would destroy the effectiveness and purpose of the bureau.

Smaller communities throughout the state, which cannot maintain a large police force, would be especially benefited by the bureau, Chief Prim believes. Larger cities would benefit in that there would be brought about the possibility of a statewide cooperative police system, which could work more effectively toward solution of all crimes. The chief pointed out the state system has been successfully tried in Minne-

ELKS CLUB TO HONOR "GRANDPA" LANGSTADT

Appleton Elks will meet at 6:30 Wednesday evening to honor "Grandpa" Langstadt, their oldest member and probably one of the oldest Elks in the country. The evening's program will open with a dinner at 6:30 at which Gus Keller, sota, where it is proving very popular.

Not only in the smaller communities, but in the farming districts, where the cases are handled by sheriff departments, the system would be a great aid, the chief said. With a new sheriff elected probably every two years, or at least every four years, the rural communities now have no expert help along this line.

The state police would not take part in investigations in any community until sent for, he said, pointing out that Appleton could carry on its local work as in the past, only with the added asset of the state aid.

A bill providing for the establishment of a state detective bureau will be presented at the next legislative session through the chief's association.

As now proposed, it is intended to start the bureau with a staff of five men and one stenographer. The five of the bureau would receive a salary of $5,000 a year. The staff might later be increased to include 12 or 15 persons.

Sr., will be toastmaster. Mayor John Goodland, and Judge Fred V. Helander will talk. The Elk band will play "old time" songs and an entertainment program arranged by J. F. Bannister will follow.

Leading Hospitals throughout America make it a point to specify

KOTEX

WHY do you suppose our outstanding hospitals, staffed by world-famous surgeons, make it a point to specify Kotex? There's more than one reason!

In the first place, it is hygienically safe. In the second place, it is amazingly absorbent—and that is vital for all surgical purposes. Actually—think of this—Kotex is five times as absorbent as the finest surgical cotton! The material of which it is made (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is laid layer upon air-cooled layer. And each one of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Because it is so absorbent and because it absorbs scientifically (not just in one concentrated area but all over) Kotex naturally stays soft. It is guaranteed to stay soft longer than any other sanitary pad.

13,000,000 pads to hospitals alone

To give you an idea of the great weight of hospital approval in back of this first of all sanitary pads, the hospitals of America bought 13,000,000 Kotex pads during the first nine months of this year. Then added to this number, they bought 2,500,000 pounds of Kotex absorbent—which is enough to make 80,000,000 more pads. Hospitals need the best. So do you. Safety, security, good health demand it. Why should you be content with anything else when you can buy Kotex everywhere—at all drug, dry goods and department stores?

You ask for it by name. Simply specify: Kotex.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.
